TORNADO STRIKES PART OF NEBRASKA—PORTO RICO SWEPT BY VIOLENT HURRICANE

Bebe Daniels Is "Up" On Sporting Events, Says Will

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Our clever little movie star, Bebe Daniels, don't overlook many sporting events.

On the eve of the international polo games she has just denied that she is to marry Tommy Hitchcock.

Just before the tennis match she denied an engagement to Tilden, and during the Olympics she publicly denied a betrothal to Charley Paddock.

On November the fourth I hope she has the good judgment to refuse both Smith and Hoover, and when Christmas rolls around, if she is going to marry Santa Claus, why keep it a whispering secret.

As Maine goes, so goes the opposite way Mississippi. Whisper that to your friends.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

For more than a month now the old fire station on East street has been vacant: the central fire company has moved to its new home on South Jefferson street. Before the move was made, Pa Newc heard many things. It was to be a central clearing house for the social welfare organizations of the city, the police department was to be moved into the vacant space. But now one seldom hears a thing. The property is too valuable to remain idle long. What shall be done about it?

In this sad world of sorrow there are many things which make one wish that he had a one way pass to the hereafter. That is, until he sees little Jimmy, the boy who sells papers in the vicinity of Mill and Washington streets. Little Jimmie confessed last night that he was helping support a widowed mother and four other children. And, hawking his wares, he gets quite a kick out of everything.

Some lesser building projects of New Castle are progressing by leaps and bounds. On West Washington street the new garage is fast nearing completion and on East Washington street another garage has been entirely enclosed by brick casing.

To those who commute between New Castle and Ellwood City by means of automobile, the detour seems sinful. Now, to get to Ellwood, one must go out the Butler road, through the railway trestle. Then the idea is to turn up a dirt road and follow it until one hits the New Castle-Ellwood road. Perhaps there are worse bits of country road in Lawrence county, but they have to be pointed out to Pa Newc.

Surely there are enough nature lovers in New Castle to form some sort of an organization. Even in New York City, where things are much more crowded than they are in Lawrence county, they have the Yosians, whose duty it is to see that the people of the metropolis do not forget the hills and the open country. Pa Newc would like very much to see some such order in New Castle. The meetings would be interesting in the extreme.

Pa Newc was brought back to the scenes of his childhood when he visited the Fairview school up on Highland avenue yesterday afternoon. The old carved seats and the little dinner pails are enough to make any fellow wish he was back in the old school with the flies buzzing around him. If you went to that sort of a school when you were a kid you will appreciate just what I mean.

The announcement that the conference of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board will be held here next year comes as a surprise and also an honor to New Castle. It means one of the most important conventions of the state will be in the city for two days. All of the delegates will be important men in the transportation and industrial world of this section of the country.

Again New Castle will take the spot light at the announcement that Earl Lin Dilks will attempt the hundred mile run from Erie to New Castle. Dilks made the run once before but got lost in a snow storm. His record was fine as far as he got and it is

Expect Jaworski Will Be Returned To Pennsylvania

Noted Desperado Is Recovering In Cleveland Hospital After Gun Battle

KILLS POLICEMAN, WOUNDS ANOTHER

Execution At Rockview Now Certain Fate As End Of Career Of Crime

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14.—In one of the quickest indictments on record, the county grand jury here today returned a charge of "murdering a police officer" against Paul Jaworski, notorious slayer, who yesterday killed Patrolman Anthony Wieczorek.

The indictment was apparently obtained to prevent Jaworski's removal to Pennsylvania. The penalty for conviction on such a charge is the same as in first degree murder, according to county officials.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 14.—Paul Jaworski, 27, the two-gun desperado who yesterday killed one policeman, wounded another and probably fatally wounded a bystander, before he was finally cornered, wounded and captured, was recovering at St. Alexis hospital here today.

Meanwhile police were searching the city's underworld haunts for John Vasbinder, Jaworski's pal, who escaped during the battle.

Police Believe Dapper Murder Near Solution

SUSPECT ADMITS KILLING DOCTOR

Says Young Carrick Doctor Slain Because Of Failure To Pay For Dope And Liquor

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—Returning to the purported confession of John F. Meckley, 24, that he killed Dr. Harry R. Dapper, detectives today believe they were nearing a solution of the most baffling murder in recent years here.

Placing little credence in Meckley's statement at first, believing him to be mentally unbalanced, detectives rechecked the youth's story, with the result that today they revealed a statement in which Meckley admits, they say, that he shot the youthful physician because Dr. Dapper refused to pay Meckley and several companions for eight cases of whiskey and a quantity of dope they stole and delivered to him.

Police say there also have a confession from Ralph Maratta, 25, local boxer, that he and a younger brother, "Rags," went with Meckley to the Dapper home the night of August 21. The elder Maratta says he and his brother lured Dr. Dapper and his father, Henry Dapper, out of the doctor's office on a ruse, but that only Meckley accompanied the father and son to the lonely spot near Bettis field where the doctor was slain.

This statement is at variance with the numerous statements made to police by the Elder Dapper, who accompanied his son on his death ride and struck over the head by his son's murderer.

Meckley was arrested Tuesday by state police on another charge. At

TWENTY SIX VICTIMS CLAIMED BY JAWORSKI

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14.—One of the most ruthless, cold-blooded killers in criminal history lay in St. Alexis hospital here today, a bullet in his head and five others in his body, calmly confessed to an amazing string of crimes—and boasted to reporters that he had killed 26 men.

Paul Jaworski, the killer, in addition to detailing his part as leader of the notorious western Pennsylvania "Flathead" gang of payroll robbers, said he participated in the Detroit News payroll holdup last summer where one policeman was fatally wounded and another shot. Jaworski said that yesterday was the first time he had killed a policeman, although he said it had been his ambition to kill six.

Many of his victims, he said, were killed in private quarrels.

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Increasing daily in intensity and bitterness, the Presidential campaign in the solid South today reached the hot point of open charges of "carpet-bagging" by the Democratic managers, and their immediate denial by members of the Republican eastern strategy board.

States in Charge

"The campaign in every southern state is entirely in the hands of the state organization," said Representative John Q. Tilson, director of the eastern speakers' bureau, following a conference with Chairman Hubert Work of the Republican national committee.

Repeated charges from various Democratic sources that northern speakers were being sent into the South and that considerable money collected in northern Republican strongholds was being diverted to en-

Jaworski Held By Erie Police, But Jumps His Bond

Famous Killer Was Arrested In Erie Three Weeks After Escape, But Gains Freedom

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—Paul Jaworski, Pennsylvania's most notorious killer, was arrested in Erie three weeks after he made his sensational escape from Allegheny county jail last year, he told Allegheny county authorities in Cleveland today.

Jaworski told the police, according to word received by District Attorney Samuel Gardner here, that he was arrested for driving without a license, gave an assumed name and jumped his bond, despite the fact his likeness was broadcast on thousands of circulars throughout Pennsylvania.

Bandit Stages Daring Robbery Of Coast Train

AMOUNT OF LOOT IS UNDETERMINED

Sheriff Posses Search For Lone Thug Who Jumps From Train And Flees Into Darkness

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—Sheriff posses were searching today for a lone bandit who last night herded 50 passengers into a Pullman car of the crack Southern Pacific "Lark" and under the threat of two steel-blue automatics robbed them of an undetermined amount of cash and personal belongings.

The robber was slight of build and young looking. He wore a black mask. Working swiftly, he lined up his victims and forced them to deposit their valuables in a sack he passed around. The hold-up occurred as the crack San Francisco bound train sped between Los Angeles and Glendale.

As the train neared the outskirts of Glendale, traveling at the rate of 30 miles an hour, the bandit leaped into the darkness and disappeared. He is believed to have boarded the train disguised as a passenger at Los Angeles.

Striking similarity of last night's hold-up to the robbery of Santa Fe train No. 8 between Los Angeles and Pasadena eight days ago caused police to believe the same man had staged both raids.

Mrs. Hoover Will Visit Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Plans are underway today for a reception to Mrs. Herbert Hoover next Wednesday when she will visit Mrs. George Horace Lorimer, president of the Republican women of Pennsylvania. Mr. Hoover is expected to stop here en-route back to Washington from Newark where he will make an address that night.

TALES OF RETURNING AUTO TOURISTS

UNUSUAL SIGHT IN HUDSON

Making a trip up the Hudson river from New York city during the recent vacation season, a party of New Castle tourists came upon a rather unusual sight. It is one however, that all who make a trip up the Hudson have encountered.

Travelling up the river some forty or fifty miles from New York city, or perhaps a little farther one notes a group of seventy or eighty ships anchored in the river.

Inquiry shows that these are some of the boats built ten years ago, when America was hastening the work of building ships in order to win the World war. According to information given near the scene, these boats are of steel construction. They are about the size of U. S. destroyers, and are being kept in condition that they could be used.

The boats are all anchored close together, giving the impression of an island in the river, as one approaches.

Tropical Storm Hits San Juan; Damage Is High

Million Dollar Damage To Porto Rican City As Severe Storm Breaks

NO CASUALTIES YET ASCERTAINED

Communication Crippled In Coast City Following Blow; Wind Is 150 Miles An Hour

(International News Service)

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 14—All relief agencies in this city today were cooperating in a concerted effort to bring the city back to normal and check up on the damage wrought by the worst tropical storm in its history.

For four hours a terrific wind which at times reached a velocity of almost 150 miles an hour tore asunder everything in its path. The wind came from the southeast and swept northwest toward Cuba and the Florida coast.

Chaotic Picture.

After the storm had spent itself, it left behind a chaotic picture of destruction. Windows were broken everywhere. Trees were uprooted by the thousands. Hundreds of roofs were carried away. Many homes were either partially or totally destroyed.

Many streets were flooded. All wires were down. Communication within the city and with other parts of Porto Rico was impossible. The city spent the night in darkness. Business was suspended.

Damage estimates ranged from $1,000,000 up. Police today bent all their efforts to ascertaining if there were any casualties. Shipping in the harbor was believed to have suffered heavily.

Damage $3,000,000.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 14.—Sweeping in from the southeast, the most violent hurricane in the history of Porto Rico swept this island in the past 24 hours, leaving a trail of death, devastation and suffering in its wake. The property loss is put at more than $3,000,000.

Telephone and telegraph wires were swept away, crippling communication with the interior.

This city was badly damaged and thousands are homeless.

It is feared that the sugar, coffee and fruit crops were virtually destroyed.

Stragglers from the storm zone say that villages were wiped out.

Every possible relief agency has been mobilized to give aid. It is believed that a call will have to be made on the Red Cross.

Organize First Aero Club Here

ELEVEN MEMBERS FORM NEW CLUB

As the result of the organization of the New Castle Aero Club, effected last night at a meeting held at the home of R. R. Kegarise, 215 Euclid avenue, this city not only has its initial flying organization, but takes its place with the few larger cities of the state and country which have such organization for the advancement of flying, not only for commercial, but for pleasure purposes.

Application is being made today for a charter for the club and the first ship of the club as a unit has been ordered.

The club will use Jackson Field on the Wilmington road as a flying center and it is planned that the club shall have a club house for the comfort, and social activities of the club, at the field, by next spring.

Eleven Members

The club in its preliminary organization last night at the Kegarise home, has eleven members. There are a number of others, who plan to join but were unable to be present last night. It is expected that the organization shall have a charter membership of thirty.

Women as as well as men are eligible to become members of the organization.

Officers Elected

Officers elected at the meeting last night were as follows: President, Jack Lamoree; secretary, T. J. Evans; treasurer, Robert Armstrong, Jr.

The members effecting the organ-

THREE SONS AND DAUGHTER FOLLOW FATHER INTO MINISTRY

Rev. George Bucher And Entire Family Take Up Work Of Ministry

FATHER TO LEAVE ACTIVE CHARGE

Dr. C. B. Wingerd, New Castle, Is Elected Moderator Of Shenango Presbytery

Although Sunday, September 23, the Rev. George H. Bucher of the Neshannock Presbyterian church will preach his last sermon at New Wilmington, yet there will be others of the family to take up the torch where he casts it off. In fact, his whole family is connected with the ministry.

Two of his sons are at the present time students at the Princeton Theological seminary. His eldest son was graduated last year at the seminary and now is pastor of one of the Harrisburg Presbyterian churches. His daughter, who was Miss Anna Bucher, is now the wife of Rev. Fowler.

At the fall meeting of the Shenango Presbytery, the Rev. Bucher asked to be released from his charge at New Wilmington, where he has been pastor for the last six years. He expects to do graduate work at the Princeton Theological seminary.

Dr. Wingerd Honored.

At the meeting of the Presbytery which took place at Sharon on September 11, the Rev. C. B. Wingerd of the Central Presbyterian church, New Castle, was elected moderator of the Presbytery and the Rev. J. Greer Bingham of the Wampum Presbyterian church was renamed clerk.

During the afternoon an address was given by Dr. George Taylor of Pittsburgh on the work of the Pittsburgh Theological seminary, of which he is president of the board of direc-

Over 12,000 In Schools Of City

Enrollment Of Public Schools Is Over 11,000 Mark This Fall

NEARLY THOUSAND IN PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

New Castle has approximately 12,000 school pupils, counting those in the public and parochial schools, it is seen following a statement of enrollment of the public schools made to the New Castle school board on Thursday evening by Superintendent C. C. Green.

The statement shows that on September 7 the public schools had 10,930 pupils enrolled and this has now exceeded 11,000. There are approximately 1000 parochial students, or perhaps more in the city, so that actually the school population here will reach somewhere near 12,500.

The detail of the public school enrollment shows 274 in the kindergarten, 6553 in the elementary schools 2554 in the junior high schools, 1441 in the senior high school and 148 in the trade school.

Registration In Beaver County Is Greatly Increased

(International News Service)

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 14.—Beaver county's registration for the November election boasts an increase of 7,000 eligible voters or more than 12 per cent over last year, records here today showed.

The total registration is 64,361 persons, of whom 55,173 are Republicans 7,357 are Democrats and 1,321 are not affiliated with any party.

The men outnumber the women electors in both party figures. The Republicans have 31,667 men and 23,506 women registered while the Democrats have 4,033 men and 2,637 women.

Thirteen Known Dead In Tornado In Middle-West

Thirteen Persons Are Killed, Several Injured As Twister Hits Mid-West

DAMAGE WILL RUN INTO THOUSANDS

Section Of Nebraska And Part Of South Dakota Feels Wrath Of Big Windstorm

(International News Service)

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 14.—At least 13 persons were killed, more than a score injured and property damage of several hundred thousand dollars was done by a tornado which swept across northeastern Nebraska and a corner of southeastern South Dakota late yesterday, a check-up today showed. Crippled communication lines have delayed complete reports and it is feared the death list will be increased.

The twister struck almost without warning and traveled rapidly in a northerly direction. The storm originated at Pender, about 70 miles north of here. It traveled north almost to Sioux City, Ia., where it lifted to appear again in Yankton county, South Dakota.

Eight are known dead in Nebraska. Two school children were killed near Walthill when a country schoolhouse was demolished. Five bodies have been recovered from wrecked houses in Winnebago, near the Indian reservation, and a school teacher was killed near Homer.

Three were killed in Yankton, S. D., and two at Davis City as the twister jumped the Missouri river.

Chicago Child In Hands Of Kidnapers Is Alive And Well

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Billy Ranieri, 10-year-old victim of kidnappers, is alive and well and probably will be delivered at his parents' home today.

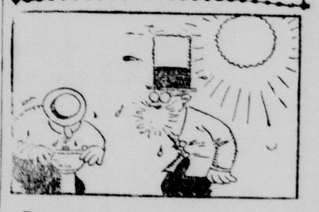

This was the message brought back by Police Captain James Dougherty after an early morning conference with Frank R. Ranieri, the boy's father. Dougherty went to the Ranieri home last midnight and was closeted with the father for several hours.

"I am convinced the father of the stolen youth is dealing directly with the kidnappers," Capt. Dougherty said. "I also learned he expects the boy home today as the result of these negotiations.

"When I asked him for a picture of the boy at midnight, he smiled and said you can have one in the morning when he gets home."

The boy was kidnapped eight days ago and is being held for $60,000 ransom. Despite the father's plea that he is unable to raise the money, the kidnapers have notified him that unless it is "on deposit by Saturday—tomorrow—the boy would be tortured to death.

Prepare to bid your straw goodbye, nor should the parting bring you sorrow, for fashion says the stubble thatch is doomed to banish on the morrow. That panama you blithely wore, the sennet and the leghorn top, is through tomorrow as you know, and straw hat wearing has to stop. Bring on the felt and iron mike, bring on the cap and other lids, for on the morrow, don't forget, the old straw kelly gets the skids. Adieu to bands of wondrous hue, and welcome bonnets more sedate, tomorrow sees the straw's demise, the weather's up to seventy-eight.

Educator Dies After Illness

Thomas M. Stewart, 84, Was Once Superintendent Of County's Schools

WILL BE BURIED ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Thomas M. Stewart, 84, of Little Beaver township, former superintendent of schools of Lawrence county, and one of the foremost educators of his time in western Pennsylvania, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Loyal W. Gilkey, of North Beaver township Thursday afternoon after a brief illness.

Mr. Stewart's death was the result of a stroke which he suffered about a week ago. Previous to his sudden illness he had been in his usual health. On account of his advanced age very little hope was entertained for his recovery.

He was born in Little Beaver township September 23, 1844, on the farm where he had lived all his life. He was the son of James and Martha Taylor Stewart, pioneers of that community.

In 1896 he was elected superintendent of schools of Lawrence county, serving two terms, being re-elected in 1899. Previous to his becoming superintendent he had been a teacher in the public schools of the county for about 30 years.

Mr. Stewart had always taken a deep interest in the educational welfare of the schools of Lawrence county. His influence on the lives of the pupils with whom he came in contact made a lasting impression.

For many years Mr. Stewart had been a faithful member of the Reformed Presbyterian church of New Galilee. Since his retirement as an educator he has been engaged in farming.

Surviving him are the following children: John Q. Stewart of Medford, Ore.; Mrs. James Shannon and Mrs. Loyal Gilkey of North Beaver township, and Mrs. Alex Leslie of Little Beaver township.

He also leaves eight grandchildren. His wife preceded him in death in August, 1897.

Funeral services will be conducted from the residence of Loyal W. Gilkey Saturday, Sept. 15, at two p. m., with Rev. George Neal of the Bethel United Presbyterian church officiating. Interment will be made in the White church cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Wolford of East North street have returned from a motor trip to Buffalo, N. Y., and Niagara Falls.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

expected that he will smash the record of former holders of the century run.

Julian Vance, first mate at The Castleton desk, found a stranger in town the other evening, who, after registering and getting his key, asked if he could keep it and bring it down in the morning. It's straight stuff, folks, and if you don't believe it, ask him.

The first alley that should receive attention in the downtown district, in Pa Newc's estimation, is Diamond Way. At the junction near the P. O., the sidewalk is uncertain and the alley is scooped out in a sort of funnel fashion. Despite the fact that it may be for drainage, Pa Newc believes that a better method might be found when it is paved.

Yes, they really found a hitching post ring in town. It's there and if you don't believe it, look for yourself. That's the only solution that Pa Newc knows of. The hitching rail is gone. Out in the country districts in one or two of the smaller Lawrence county towns there are still some hitching rails as well as rings and posts, but they are few.

There is always a sort of excitement when court season starts. Somehow things seem dead when there is no court. Now that the old court house is buzzing with activity the town has seemingly taken on a new life. Just why, we do not know.

Pa Newc Observes.—That elevator men don't like to run elevators any more than they have to—a man with a red van dyke beard and nose glasses—a girl with more than the usual amount of school books—a young lady of high school age with much hair hanging down her back—a man with a wooden leg and if you didn't know it you would never become aware of the fact.

Apparently men are interested in style shows as well as women Pa Newc noted quite a crowd on the sidewalk around an open doorway of a downtown store last night, composed entirely of men, and discovered that their gaze was rivetted on a display of women's fashions inside the store.

Coal business has taken on a boom in the past week or two, as New Castle householders proceed to fill up the cellar storage rooms in preparation for the coming of winter.

Elsewhere in The News is an account of the work of a teacher in one of these one room country schools in Lawrence County. She has only 40 different classes to teach. Wonder how many of the New Castle school teachers would fare if they had to tackle that kind of a problem?

ORGANIZE FIRST AERO CLUB HERE

ization last night are: Jack Lamoree, Lee Ash, Oscar Francisco, of Mercer, George Schmidt, Daniel Hennon, J. S. Grotefend, Fred Specht, T. J. Evans, Robert Armstrong, Jr., H. C. Sherman and R. R. Kegarise.

Next meeting of the members of the club will be Thursday evening of next week at the Kegarise home.

The charter will be closed about the middle of October.

Use Jackson Field

As has been previously stated the club will have the use of Jackson Field. Flying members will receive instructions in the manipulation of an airplane. The ship ordered last night through Kegarise Air Transport, Inc., is being furnished by the corporation to the club at cost, there being no profit sought by the corporation in the sale of the machine. The Kegarise Air Transport, Inc. is also allowing the club the use of the Jackson Field Air Port without charge, also the use of its hangar for housing the club plane.

By the time the ship of the club has been received, it is planned that several members of the club will have been taught to fly a ship and will be able to use it. The ship of the Kegarise Air Transport, Inc. is to be used for instruction purposes until the arrival of the new ship.

It is planned that a club house shall be open for the use and recreation of the members of the club at Jackson Field by next spring. It will function as a social organization as well as a flying organization.

The club will afford opportunity not only for those desiring to fly but also any one desirous of becoming a licensed airplane mechanic.

There is such a membership available in the club. There are already three government licensed airplane mechanics in the club membership and they will be glad to instruct those desirous of learning this end of the flying game. Members will also have the opportunity of becoming licensed pilots.

Lieutenant Herbert C. Sherman was unanimously selected last night as flying instructor of the club.

The club will assist in putting Jackson Field into first class condition.

Plans are under way to link this club with the Pittsburgh Aero Club and the Flying Club of Toronto, Canada, as well as other similar organizations in such a way as to have joint activities.

Previous to effecting the organization, R. R. Kegarise showed interesting aerial moving pictures, which he took of this district, the activities of the flying club of Toronto and other important airports of the country. He also gave an instructive talk on aviation and the benefits to be derived from the organization of a club such as that effected last night.

POLICE BELIEVE DAPPER MURDER NEAR SOLUTION

that time he was alleged to have implicated three Maratta brothers, Frank, Ralph and Rags, Le Roy Madden and Eddie McCallin as accomplices in a series of robberies. Later, Police say, he admitted the Dapper crime and a series of robberies in the Beaver Valley.

Today's turn in the case came after a midnight grilling of the others implicated in the case during which, police say, the others admitted knowledge of the crime.

In the purported confession, which detectives made public today, Meckley said Ralph and Rags Maratta called for the doctor and his father, saying Meckley's mother was sick. After driving a short distance, the Maratta brothers left the car and Meckley climbed in. He said he directed the doctor to drive to the secluded spot, there striking the elder Dapper over the head and forced the doctor out of the car with his revolver. He then shot Dr. Dapper, he said.

"I shot Dr. Dapper when he stepped into the middle of the road. Then I took the father out of the car, laid him down beside Dr. Dapper on the road and I got in the car and left," the purported confession reads.

The youth says he parked the car in an alley in Homewood, remaining in it all night, then met Madden, McCallin and the Maratta brothers, who drove with him to "a western city," where they sold the car for $350, which he said was divided among them.

He says they then stole another car, drove to Pittsburgh and separated.

"My reason for killing Dr. Dapper and stealing his car was I sold him some whiskey and some dope which Madden, McCallin and myself had stolen from drug stores in Allegheny and Beaver counties during the past year, for which he would not pay me," Meckley's statement reads.

"He got eight cases of whiskey. I had it in my mind that if he did not pay me I would kill him. I determined either to get the money or kill him."

Father Skeptical

Henry Dapper, father of the slain physician, who was with his son when he was killed, branded Meckley's story as "preposterous".

Pointing out several alleged discrepancies in Meckley's alleged confession, which differs in several details from the elder Dapper's story, the father of the slain man said he felt certain that Meckley was not his son's slayer.

Dapper stoutly maintained he was telling the truth when he related the incidents of the crime. He pointed out that county detectives had satisfied themselves that he had joined his son and the stranger at his home.

Meckley in his story said that the father and Dr. Dapper and two companions left the physician's office in the car, later picking up Meckley and dropping the two companions.

In several places the elder Dapper pointed out instances where he said existing evidence failed to check with Meckley's "confession".

FINDS GOTHAM DRY

William H. Atwell has no personal knowledge of the fact.

"I have not seen one night club or one speakeasy since I have been in New York," declares the judge.

"I have not been approached by a single bootlegger," he adds.

There are those, who reading the judge's statement might suggest that it results from the fact that justice is blind. There are others who will see in it Judge Atwell's contention that bootleggers and speakeasies are not the cause, but the result of violation of the liquor law. Or, as he puts it: "Bootleggers are not the crop of the prohibition law, but the harvest of the crop of lawbreakers."

Attitude Toward Prohibition

Judge Atwell, who came to Brooklyn during his vacation to help clear an overcrowded docket, was an anti-prohibitionist in principle and action before the passage of the Eighteenth amendment. But since the country became nominally dry the judge has not taken a drink, either here or abroad, he avers. As a judge, he feels he cannot, off the bench, nullify a law for whose violation he has sent men to prison. As an American, he feels he must not break any law which the will of a majority of his fellowmen has placed on the statute books.

He has little use for those who break the prohibition law and then argue that it cannot be enforced. This he terms "illogical."

He does not care to discuss the raids conducted on the night clubs of whose existence he has no personal knowledge. A judge's place, he explains, is simply to act on those cases brought before him, and to see that they are fairly tried, and not to "clean up."

One reason Judge Atwell evades discussion of prohibition—save very generally—is because he feels that the bitterness engendered by this question, particularly in New York, makes fair treatment impossible. "You cannot have justice when each side questions the motives of the other," he declares.

"Then how," the judge was asked, "is it possible to obtain a jury to give a fair trial in a prohibition case?"

Faith in Juries

The answer to this question, in Judge Atwell's court, is his method of selecting juries.

Out of his years of experience on the bench, the judge has gained a deep faith in the many times "twelve good men and true" who have sat with him on many cases, and in mankind in general.

"No one," pronounces the benign-looking, gray-haired jurist, whose quick action in court disputes belies his gentle manner, "is totally devoid of honor, of goodness, or of the power to think."

Appealing to these qualities in the men who come before him in the selection of juries, Judge Atwell, after asking the routine questions, puts to each what he calls the "big question," with an appeal to give it deep, earnest consideration: 'Now, looking into your own heart and your own mind, are you sure there is no reason why you cannot give this defendant a fair trial?"

A simple question, yet one which calls forth the finest qualities of a man, the judge maintains. Ninety-nine men out of a hundred respond to it honestly, he believes. Through it, he feels he has been able to obtain fair trials for rich and poor, black and white, regardless of prejudice.

CAMPAIGN GROWING IN INTENSITY IN "SOLID SOUTH"

couragement of the revolt of Democratic drys in the South, were discussed in the conference between Tilson and Work.

"No speakers have been assigned in the South, save at the specific request of the Republican managers of the various states," Tilson declared.

"Even when speakers are requested the national organization offers a wide selection of names for the consideration of the local committees, and the subject of speeches is in every case left for the approval of the local committee.

"The same principle governs the campaign expenditures in the South. Everything is handled through the local committees."

Lowden Will Speak

Chairman Work returned to Washington today after a crowded one-day visit to eastern headquarters here. He took back with him, according to Tilson, assurances from political intimates of former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois that Lowden would take the stump for Herbert Hoover in the Middle-West whenever called upon.

He also carried back to Hoover definite word that former Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, elected last week as a member of the world court of international justice, would make at least six campaign speeches, three in the East and three in the West. It had been intimated previously that Hughes' election to the international tribunal would prevent his participation in the Presidential campaign. Hughes is now en route from Europe. His assurances to Tilson came by wireless from shipboard.

Butler to Speak

Another speaker in the Hoover drive, according to Tilson, will be Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia and chairman of the Carnegie endowment for international peace, who a month ago vigorously denounced Hoover's acceptance speech utterances on prohibition and disarmament. H. Edmund Machold, New York Republican chairman, has had several "satisfactory" conversations with Dr. Butler this week, Tilson said. Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, daughter of Dr. Butler and vice chairman of the New York G. O. P. central committee, confirmed the report that her father would campaign for the Hoover-Curtis ticket in the Empire State.

Thrifty Women Who Buy for Cash, Now Receive a Cash Discount!

This Is the First and Only Store in New Castle to Issue Cash Discount Certificates.

The Ellen Kay Shop, located in The Penn Theatre Building, New Castle, has decided upon a plan whereby it will issue a Cash Discount Certificate with every purchase made at this store. This certificate will represent 5% of the amount of each purchase made and will have a trading value of the amount of the certificate which may be used in whole or part payment for any article purchased at The Ellen Kay Shop.

The Ellen Kay Shop is not burdened with the overhead and expense which is necessary in conducting a Credit or Charge Account business. It can well afford to sell its merchandise on a lower basis than stores who have a Credit System.

In addition to this The Ellen Kay Shop purchases all its merchandise for Cash and as result of this receives a substantial discount. Why is not the consumer entitled to this same Cash Discount when she purchases for Cash?

This store has therefore decided upon a plan whereby it will issue Cash Discount Certificates to encourage women in New Castle and vicinity to make their purchases for Cash.

It is the belief of this institution that thousands of women will avail themselves of this opportunity and will take advantage of this fine plan to eliminate the excessive cost of Wearing Apparel.

You will find the last word in modern arrangement, exclusive and still the merchandise is priced surprisingly low. Every garment is personally selected, and the newest will always be found at The Ellen Kay.

Another feature of particular interest is our Modern Circulating Library, which enables the Book Lovers to rent all the very latest Fiction at a very nominal fee. Do take advantage of this unusual service.

A hearty welcome is extended to all. Opening Day, Saturday, 15th, 1928.

THE COMFORTABLE AGE

UNKNOWINGLY, Henry Ford has delivered a campaign speech that will rank among the most impressive of those that have been made and will be made for Herbert Hoover. The Detroit automobile manufacturer is a Hoover supporter, but he was not talking politics in this interview, which made the former commerce secretary the man of the hour without naming him.

Mr. Ford, in a prophetic mood, sees America on the threshold of what he very aptly calls "the industrial and comfortable age," the greatest industrial development the world has ever known, during which individual productive power is to be marvelously increased and workers are to have more time and more money with which to enjoy the fruits of their labor.

The new era of industrialism, he says, will need the services of "social engineers," men who know the needs both of business and of the people, men of vision, who can draft the plans, foresee the stresses and build to meet them.

If Mr. Ford had anybody in mind when he uttered those words, it was the Republican presidential nominee. Those are his qualifications. He is fitted for the job of "social engineer" and ready and willing to assume the responsibilities it involves.

Mr. Hoover has anticipated the thoughts of the motor car maker. He has said that business must not be handicapped and restrained, but that, if this is to be the "comfortable" as well as the "industrial" age, business must progress in such a way that it will add to the comfort and well-being of the people.

SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE

REFORESTATION and protection have made Pennsylvania a sportman's paradise, but even the thousands who hunt and fish in this state are amazed by the news that during the 1927 hunting season deer were shot in all but thirteen of the state's sixty-seven counties.

The only counties in which no deer were killed last year were Chester, Crawford, Delaware, Erie, Green, Lawrence, Lancaster, Montour, Philadelphia, Washington, Lebanon, Mercer and Montgomery. The other fifty-four counties provided deer hunting, although the bags in some were poor.

The interesting thing to the person not heretofore informed on the distribution of wild life and forest lands in the Keystone state is that so large a part of the state is so sparsely settled and densely wooded. It means a new conception of how extensively mountainous and wild is this great commonwealth.

Pennsylvania is famed far and wide for its trout fishing and hunting, but few have dreamed that these sports are enjoyed by so large a part of a state that is still more widely known for its industries and agriculture. Here civilization rubs shoulders with the primitive and the wilderness becomes the setting for the city.

TEXAS FOR AND AGAINST AL SMITH

GREAT doings down in Texas, the most rockribbed Democratic state and Solid South. It is always as reliably Democratic by huge majorities running into the hundreds of thousands as Pennsylvania is Republican. And yet it was found necessary to send Governor Smith's running-mate, Vice Presidential Candidate Robinson, into the commonwealth to do what he could to stifle the internecine strife engendered by the nomination of the Tammany sachem. If he hoped to prevent a quarrel in the state convention, which has just been held, he is disappointed, for the convention split, the Smith people going one way and the anti-Smith people the other.

It was this way. The convention started out with a motion to deny seats to all delegates not loyal to Smith. There was a bolt. A rival convention was organized and a resolution adopted which characterized the nomination of Smith to be "an unfortunate error" and declaring that the nomination of Robinson "in no way remedied the mistake." These bolters—all good Democrats—will support Herbert Hoover.

With the Smith opponents out of the way, the regulars continued their proceedings. They followed the lead of Governor Dan Moody, who, although an ardent Prohibitionist, argued for the support of the presidential candidate. The result was a "cordial indorsement" of the platform framed at Houston and of Smith, but in the same resolution "all officers and members of the party" were summoned to rally for "the destruction of the traffic in alcoholic liquors." Carrying water on both shoulders—or an attempt to do so. Smith is accepted, but his policies are rejected.

Thus it is throughout the South. The situation there is unique. Smith added a liquor plank of his own to that of the convention. His action has aroused such a turmoil as has not been witnessed in recent years declares the Philadelphia Inquirer. On the other hand Democrats are urged to vote for Smith, while electing members of congress who will refuse to follow him. On the other hand Democrats are asked to reject Smith outright and, while remaining loyal to their party in all other respects, to cast their ballots for Herbert Hoover.

Chairman Raskob would do well to quit his foolish talk about carrying Pennsylvania for Smith and pay more attention to Southern Democratic states where rebellion is rampant.

Wild Day, Wild Street.
Nitrogen Replacing Gold.
Queer Germany.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Chang Tsung-Chang, off to the Chinese battle front, waves goodbye to 20 wives and concubines, promising to come back victorious. Anemic westerners can only admire Chang's courage and nerve.

Ladies whom he began marrying young, when he was a gang coolie, include Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Russians and Mongolians. Win or lose, that's a brave Chinese.

Wild times in Wall Street Wednesday. Mergers to fire the imagination of speculators were announced; others promised.

Stocks at rising prices changed hands 10,000 and 15,000 shares at a time. Tickers were 44 minutes behind the market.

Apparently Federal Reserve gentlemen will have to find some way of jacking interesting rates up to 10 or 20 per cent. It seems hard to convince the buying public that American securities are not good, that we are not in prosperous times and that control of the world's money market should be moved to London.

Gold has been the unit of value since men first found strange, heavy little yellow grains washed down by mountain streams, thousands of years ago.

Men have struggled for gold and died weeping because they couldn't take it along, and have murdered each other for gold.

Now gold, scince tells you, "Gold won't always be the unit of value." Nitrogen will replace it, being the foundation of our food supply, and of life.

Every square mile of air above the earth's surface carries 20,000,000 tons of nitrogen, enough to last the world 12 years.

Any way of getting that nitrogen out of the air cheaply would be marvelously important to farmers, especially.

They do things differently in the queer German republic.

Hugo Stinnes, Jr., whose father was the richest man in Germany, accused of tampering with Germany's bonds, trying to make money illicitly, is not yet convicted, but he is in jail.

And for the present he will stay there.

It will amaze our high-spirited Americans that steal a government oil reserve. They are on their private yachts, never saw a jail, and probably never will see one.

Another step in flying, nine airmen starting a non-stop flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Some will make the flight, some fail.

This is sure, before you are much older, flights will be made "Every hour on the hour."

The Curtiss people, backed by important bankers, have organized a "Curtiss Service," airplane taxis to take you anywhere whenever you want to go, enabling you to connect with a fast express train that left before you were quite ready, to overtake an ocean steamer 500 miles out.

Flying will be a reality soon.

The theater with actors moving and speaking may come back into its own. Mr. Swope's General Electric company is prepared, through radio-television, to let you see and hear actors as they play their parts on the stage.

You may hear and see in New York the marvelously trained actors of the Paris Theater Francais or hear voices and watch twinkling toes on the stage of La Scala in Milan.

Scientists assembled in Glasgow tell you one thing to remember, that "nerve cells require oxygen to preserve them."

So does every other cell in the body. Practice deep breathing, keep the windows open, exercise hard enough at least once a day to rid the lungs of "residual" air and live longer.

A. J. Kobler leaves the American Weekly to devote his time to a newspaper enterprise of his own. Success to an appallingly energtic citizen.

Youth that asks, "How can a young man get along nowadays?" please observe how Kobler created for himself a job on the American Weekly, that soon paid him twice as much as the people pay the president of the United States, and a good deal more.

Kobler told W. R. Hearst, owner of the American Weekly, "I would like to run your color avertising."

"What makes you think you can get color advertising?" asked Hearst.

"How much salary do you want?" asked Hearst.

"No salary," said Kobler. "Look at these contracts. They call for $5,000 a page, whereas your rate now is $4,000 a page. I want to make the rate $5,000. I want to get half of that extra thousand dollars, you the other half."

That's how one energetic young man got himself a job.

Now a page of color in the American Weekly costs $15,000 inside, $17,500 outside. And, according to Albert D. Lasker, head of Lord & Thomas, who ought to know about advertising, that AMERICAN WEEKLY, with more than 5,600,000 circulation, net paid, is the greatest individual advertising power in the United States.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:11.
Sun rises tomorrow 5:42.

We were told that Frank P. Andrews, plumber, was standing out on Washington street scratching his head and when asked why the concern, said: "See that sign. It says 'Welcome F. P. A.' on it and I wonder why they are welcoming me."

We have known of conditions where there was a whole lot of authority but not much responsibility, which was not so good.

A Federal agent says there are 20,000 blind tigers in New York alone. He must have seen them at 9 A. M. ii they were alone.

When the fellow reached for his hip in the bad old days, he was going to kill you on purpose.

Nature evens things. The faster your life, the sooner you get to slow music.

A blow-out is a nuisance, but the modern romeo has no such trial as getting a rein caught under the nag's tail.

This is the season when the school teacher receives precious darlings accompanied by their mothers and knows they are young hyenas.

We heard a bird say yesterday that he never remembered of being real drunk or of having heard any one tell of him being real drunk. Perhaps a case of the whole crowd being drunk.

Moving pictures are shown in New Jersey which are not allowed to be exhibited in Pennsylvania. Great crowds rush to those theatres and often it is hard to get into them. How do we know? We tried to get into some of them. Pennsylvania is a very decent state six days a week and more than any other state on Sundays.

From what we can gather most of the leading Democrats in New Castle say that they are against Governor Smith for president. One of the leading ones, however, is standing pat for the ticket and if Smith is elected he will be the one who will handle the patronage, which always means a lot to a Democrat of a group of em. A. Martain Graham, Esq., is the apparent leader of the Democratic ticket, and if Smith gets elected there will be only one "leading Democrat" in Lawrence county. We sure do have to laugh a few.

About the only non-stop endurance stunt yet to achieve is the Sunday paper.

We often hear talk of making the highways wider. We think that would be a mistake. A lot of fools would swing out into the center of a road and bust into two or more lines of cars instead of only one, as they now do. There are a lot of bozos who go to sleep while driving and we met one such recently and if we had not had our driving ability right our hands and heads we would now be sleeping peacefully in Oak Pa..., where we have our family burial ground. What we need is authority to shoot to kill.

It was our pleasure and privilege to visit New Castle, Delaware, not long ago. It has a population of about 3,500 and is a very pretty place. It is on the Delaware river and we ferried across from New Jersey to get there. It is a very old place and has many historical features. Here William Penn first landed when he came to America, October 24, 1682. This will be news to a lot of people who have always thought William was an Indian. There are many old homes in that city where antique furniture is displayed, but not always for sale. The people there seem to be proud of their antiques and make a great effort to have tourist tarry and see the sights. It is well worth going to New Castle, Delaware.

Europe: A nice place for the big boys to kill time while the folks back home are forgetting.

WHEN YOU ARE SLIPPING

And things are lookin' mighty blue.
Thats the time of square your shoulders
And show what kind of stuff's in you.
Just dig your toes in deeper
And take another holt,
For life ain't half worth livin'
If your can't take a little jolt.

You've never been so bad off yet
That someone wasn't worse,
And it isn't goin' to help a bit
To rant around and curse.
You only show the other folks
What a weakling you can be.
And don't you ever think, my friend,
That they will never see.

But if you'll only laugh it off
And start anew once more,
'Fore long you'll find you're twice the man
You've ever been before.
And folks will point you out and say:
"That guy is sure a wonder,
Nothing ever sets him back—
He'll make his mark, by thunder!"

AMERICANISM: Letting the barber shave you because you haven't the nerve to say "no" after getting a hair cut.

Delightful Autumn, when it's cool enough for people to do their own cooking and relatives go home.

Speaking about different things, that piece of ground now being cleared where the Rosena furnace once stood, would be the grandest place for a park. It could be made one of the prettiest spots in the world if the city owned it. It seems to us that this piece of ground should be acquired by the city, no matter what it may cost. This is a chance for some real action, and as a starter, the Hints and Dints man will give Five Thousand Dollars in real American money to start a fund to buy the ground.

Another thing the casual traveler in an "upper" would like to see reformed is the big hotel's berth control.

A million years devoted to developing a language, resulting at last in a metropolitan who feels superior because he knows the latest slang.

There are still some high class dining rooms in this country where smoking is not permitted and it is almost impossible to get reservations in some of the hotels that have them. There is a place for cows and smoking but it is not in dining rooms where the public pays for service.

Everytime we go on the road and get back home, we feel like taking out a few more memberships in the New Castle Motor Club. It is the greatest investment one can make and worth a hundred times more that it costs, even if one would stay at home and others got the benefit.

If he is beginning to reflect that doctors are the most useful of men, he will be forty-five on his next birthday.

We're all alike. Assemble two filling stations and twelve people and the twelve will feel superior to "rubes" a mile from the stations.

THE LITTLE BOY WHO DIDN'T DIE

Oh, little lad of long ago,
Oh, boy who used to be,
Sometimes despite my years I know
That you are still with me!
Sometimes in minutes, fleeting, rare,
I hear your footsteps on the stair.

Sometimes upon the sandy shore
Beneath the summer sky,
As in the years which are no more,
You watch the ships go by,
And then, and strange that this should be,
You skim flat pebbles on the sea.

And now and then when care's asleep
And worry reconciled,
The dreadful bonds of time you leap,
Oh, happy-hearted child;
At some delight which nonsense brings,
That old time boyish laughter rings!

The man is her, and people say
The lad's forever gone,
But 'neath these temples silvered gray
I know you're living on,
For often when I'm all alone

Philadelphia's Vice Crusade Arouses Interest And Doubt

Conditions In Pennsylvania Metropolis Compared With Those Of Other Cities In Discussion Of Organized Crime Problem

Philadelphia's battle with bootleggers and gangsters is watched by the country at large with interest, accompanied by doubts that vice can be suppressed in the Pennsylvania metropolis or any other city through flares of crusading unless supported by a militantly favorable public sentiment.

The PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN believes the ire of good citizens has been stirred to the required pitch. "From time to time," says The Bulletin, "the people, ordinarily passive, have been roused by some extraordinary scandal or by the cumulative growth of the graft, and there has been a house cleaning. That is what has happened and is now happening in Philadelphia, and there is every expectation here that the law and its fearless prosecutor, District Attorney Monaghan, will come through with substantially a clean sweep."

"If politicians work hand in hand in such a game, they can be exposed and the practice broken up," contends the PHILADELPHIA RECORD, with the explanation that "admittedly there is a good deal of cheap and crooked politics in the protection given by the police to the bootlegging industry."

The LANCASTER INTELLIGENCER JOURNAL wonders "why Mayor Mackay should wait until his administration was tarnished before he acted. The WILLIAMSPORT SUN expresses the opinion: "There may be some question as to whether police corruption is an effect of crime or its cause. There is less question about the remedy—a police force which is the enemy of crime, rather than its ally."

"Whenever authorities wait for 'someone to complain' before wiping out a nest of iniquity," advises the UTICA OBSERVER-DISPATCH, "it spreads and produces other similar nests. People of shady morals, seeing that outlawed practices are profitable, and that the law is not enforced, rush into the business. They corrupt the city government if they can. Philadelphia, overrun with lawbreaking business, is paying the price of delay."

The LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL suggests that when the grand jury reported 13,000 speakeasies and hundreds of gunmen, "the police probably were as pained and surprised as the Mayor was at the news." Pointing out that in the Mayor's "drastic crusade," "twenty-four hours' notice was given by him," the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS asserts: "The inference is that the underworld was given time to get to cover. Liquor dealers may merely lock the front door and wait for the storm to blow over, as it always has done before."

The SYRACUSE HERALD holds that "Mayor Mackey, a feeble officer, is not likely to succeed where Gen. Smedley Butler failed." To the NEW YORK WORLD it appears that "What the Mayor obviously desires is to give the city a surface cleaning and get everybody to forget the liquor and crime scandals." The BELLINGHAM HERALD remarks: "New York and Chicago have been vying with each other for the vice spot-light and, no doubt, both will welcome an opportunity to retreat to the wings while Philadelphia puts on its little show."

The INDIANAPOLIS NEWS states: "Public opinion must, of course, cooperate for where that is poisoned, little can be done. But it is to be assumed that Mayor Mackey is in earnest, that he means what he says, and that the decent people of Philadelphia will support him in his effort to make the city decent." The BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE thinks that "insistence on a high stardard of police work all the time can prevent what the most zealous fits of moral revivalism cannot easily cure."

"What seems significant in these developments," in the opinion of the BALTIMORE SUN, "is that, while they have been going on ever since prohibition was adopted, it was not until the gunman began his murderous outbreaks that Philadelphia was shocked to the point of doing something. In other words, there was acquiescence in wholesale violation of the Volstead law, but Philadelphia draws the line when organized gangs begin to shoot up the town."

Quoting the Mayor's order for a clean-up in 24-hours, the ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT commends: "If a 'real not a perfunctory job' is made of it, he will be lucky if he gets it cleaned up in a hundred times that period, or even in 24 months instead of hours. The city's version of hootch dealing, hijacking, official corruption, does not differ so much in general features from versions that have become threadbare in other cities." The MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER agrees that "conditions in Philadelphia are typical of American cities in general," and the MUNCIE STAR believes that "the City of Brotherly Love doubtless will be considered somewhat provincial in raising a clamor over a convenient arrangement to ignore the laws against liquor, gambling and other forms of vice."

Referring to the report that 13,000 speakeasies, and going back to 1918 for comparison, the NEW ORLEANS ITEM says: "If more than 2,000 saloons existed there at that time, it could not have been many more. If the Mayor is right, prohibition has been anything but prohibitive in the Pennsylvania metropolis. New Orleans is commonly reputed to be largely favorable to the dispensing of stimulating beverages, both then and now. On the strength of Mayor Mackey's statement, New Orleans ought to take its hat off to Philadelphia."

"The Philadelphia and Chicago revelations," declares the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR, "ought to be sufficient warning of what will surely follow in any city where oath of office is disregarded and the public is at the mercy of criminals with whom police are in alliance." The CHARLESTON DAILY MAIL, however offers the view as to the two cities: "There is one big difference between the condition of Philadelphia and the one in Chicago. The latter has been allowed to continue in existence almost with open official sanction. In Philadelphia, on the other hand, striking of the first trial, in this instance made as result of the slaying of a gangster, was followed immediately with a probe that already must shake the foundations of the system of alleged crooked collusion, and threatens to wipe out the latter with extraordinary swiftness."

MEN'S CLOTHES AND HATS

When a man wants a new suit of clothes, as a rule, he goes to a haberdasher and, pointing to a pile of suits, says: "I want one of those."

The suit is made by somebody that never saw him, and made exactly like thousands of others of that size. Fashion decrees what he should wear and he doesn't bother to dispute the fashion.

Of course, there are a few who go to tailors and have their clothes made to measure, but all they get is superior workmanship and fabric. The tailor rigidly adheres to the style. There is no brainwork about it at all. The man is led by custom, as the bull is led by a nose ring.

When the woman gets a new dress she applies all her intelligence to getting something that suits her. She goes to fashion experts, reads fashion magazines, consults her friends and perhaps also indulges in secret prayer. The point is that all the intelligence that she has is focused on the important question.

Hence we have no hesitancy in saying that women's clothes are much more intelligently selected than men's.

It took a long while to get rid of the stiff collar and stiff bosom shirt. It probably will take eons to substitute some sensible garment for the coat and vest.

The Japanese have demonstrated how useless is the white shirt, but that doesn't do us any good.

Often the philosophically inclined are disposed to ask themselves the question, "Why the hat?"

Nature has provided men and women both with head coverings of hair that ought to be sufficient except in cases where there is undue exposure.

There is little doubt that we would all be hirsutely better off if we rarely wore hats.

Many college girls and college boys have discarded them and get along famously without them.

A rich young lady once took a trunkful of hats with her when she came to Wellesley college, but the trunk remained unopened, for nobody wore hats.

Looking around over the audience in the theater you will see many bald heads, ranging from a thin spot on top to a perfectly polished dome, but they are all male. I have yet to see a bald woman.

The answer is, hats.

A gentleman from New York, who says he has not worn a hat in five years, wrote the other day to Mussolini, who is said to have decreed that all college students in Italy must wear straw hats, and urged him to decree that no one should wear any hat.

The reason for this writing was that the gentleman in question looked like Mussolini, which at least was original.

Mussolini has done a lot of things, but if he can stop men from wearing hats he will be some Duce.

Tomorrow—The Power to Become.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ENGLISH SLANG.

The policeman today in England and America is universally known as a "cop" but why "cop" is more than the average person can tell.

It seems the term "cop" is an abbreviation for "copper" by which the first policemen in London were known.

Sir Robert Peel organized the first police force in London in 1829 but there was some opposition to the new organization as people feared it would be military in character. To dintinguish police from military forces they were equipped with blue uniforms with copper buttons as against the soldiers' scarlet uniforms and brass buttons.

The copper buttons were so distinguishing a feature that the new police were quickly known as "coppers" which was later reduced to "cops" and to this day the majesty of the law is upheld by "cops."

Is another piece of English slang. How do the Anglophobians stand for it?

Jaworski Former Choir Singer In Church In Butler

Paul Jaworski, Famous Criminal And Deadly Killer, Sang In Ukranian Choir

CHURCH FRIEND CAUSES CAPTURE

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 14.—Once—years ago—Paul Jaworski, western Pennsylvania's arch bandit, was a choir singer in the little Ukranian church in Butler, Pa.

At Jaworski's side stood a youth who had ambitions of some day becoming a priest. Together, the two of them—one now described as the most desperate killer in the country and the other the idealistic student priest—lifted their voices in praise of God.

Today Jaworski, sullen even in his pain, lies in a Cleveland hospital, closely guarded by uniformed police and facing death in the electric chair for an almost unprecedented criminal career.

The man who brought about this arch-bandit's downfall was none other than the dreaming student-priest—John Zavworski.

Despite the fact that Zavworski is assured of a $5,000 reward for his efforts in bringing about the capture of this notorious bandit, he is unhappy through fear of death at the hands of Jaworski's band of criminals who are still at large.

The goal for which he has worked—money to complete his studies and enter the priesthood—is now shadowed by fear.

Zavworski recognized Jaworski when he and Jack Vasbinder entered a restaurant yesterday, and telephoned police.

Zavworski and Jaworski looked at each other, but neither gave any sign of recognition, according to the former's account. Zavworski walked quietly away to an outside telephone booth. He says he thinks the gunman followed, but for some reason did not molest him, and then returned to the restaurant and continued with his meal. Zavworski did not return.

Pittsburgh Bishop To Address Erie Conference Of Methodist Church Tonight

(International News Service)

ERIE, Sept. 14.—A laymen's conference was scheduled for today at the anniversary Erie conference of the Methodist Episcopal church and Bishop Herbert Welch of Pittsburgh will address a banquet on the evening program.

At yesterday's session of the conference the delegates heard addresses by Rev. Dr. Bruce Wright of Buffalo, N. Y., and the Rev. J. S. Greenfield of Chicago. At a dinner conference the Rev. Dr. Edwin A. Brown of Geneva, O., spoke on "Social Service Adventure."

The Woman's Home Missionary society listened to an address by Mrs. J. G. Meidenbauer of Buffalo, N. Y., national secretary.

Mail Plane Lands On British Coast, Is Taken To France

Missing Ile De France Plane Forced To Land On British Coast

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The missing Ile De France mail plane landed safely off the British coast and was immediately taken in tow by a French vessel which is bringing it to the French coast, it was announced this afternoon. The flyers upon the plane were not injured. The plane was originally reported lost after being catapulted from the ship 400 miles at sea.

Mine Workers Will Meet At Shamokin

Anticipate Spirited Election At Convention On October 16

(International News Service)

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Sept. 14.—With a spirited contest under way for the office of president and the election scheduled for September 25, the bi-ennial convention of district No. 9, United Mine Workers of America, will be held at Minersville, near here, on October 16.

Chris J. Golden, who now heads the district and is ranking member of the miners on the tri-district executive committee, is a candidate to succeed himself as president. Golden was also the miners' spokesman during the negotiations preceding the settlement of the 1925-26 strike.

Opposing Golden are Edward X. Brennon of Shamokin and Thomas Howells of Pottsville.

The result of the election on September 25 will be announced and ratified at the convention.

The Alpha ray, so one is told, will travel from New York to San Francisco in one-sixth of a second. It may be silly of us, but we cannot refrain from asking, "What for?"

Former New Castle Man Thinks Women Belong In The Home

J. F. Patterson Of Long Island R. R. Plans To Drop All Married Women

All married women belong in the home. They have no place in the hurly-burly business world. Primarily, their occupation is that of housewife.

These are the sentiments of J. F. Patterson, general manager of the Long Island Railroad company, and a former superintendent of the E. & A. division of the Pennsylvania system, with offices located in New Castle.

In a statement made Thursday, Mr Patterson declared that the Long Island railroad has tentatively agreed to a plan whereby all the married women employes of the road would be discharged. However, no action will be taken at the present time.

Texas Horned Toads Shipped By Air Mail

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Almost everything from lingerie to 300-pound metal shipments have been made by air mail, but the air express companies draw the line on carrying livestock, according to American Air Transportation Association.

Cats, dogs, baby chicks, snakes and other "bits" of livestock offered for shipment have been refused. A shipper of a Texas horned toad recently beat regulations by sending the toads in a small wooden box marked jewelry. The toads arrived safely and in good health.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

On Penguin Island

"How do you Penguins learn to swim?" demanded Peter and the Bunnies. Bobolink, always glad to tell all he knew, began another story.

"You see the Penguins, too, are distant relatives of Cormorant, and on his way back from visiting Pelican he stopped off to see them.

"He said they live on a rocky island; they are good natured birds and thousands and thousands of them live together. He had no idea the first time he saw them that there were so many birds in the world.

"Cormorant had sent word by a gull that he was coming and the Penguins were ready to welcome him. He noticed at once that there was no confusion in spite of their numbers. The young birds were in one section, the old birds in another, the birds that were losing their feathers in a third, and so on. His cousin explained to him afterwards and told him that every Penguin knew his place, and if a bird that was losing his feathers should dare to venture among those that had already moulted and were in good health the latter would become very angry and drive the intruder back where he belonged.

"Cormorant noticed that Penguins were constantly changing places, some going to sea and others returning to land, but he said not once did he notice them running into each other or getting into the wrong sections.

"The mothers—when they had to move— carried the eggs they were hatching away with them. You'd never guess how they kept the eggs warm. Not in a nest at all, but by holding them close to their bodies.

"'And I'll bet you can't guess how the Penguins teach their children to swim!' continued Cormorant, his great green eyes wide with surprise. 'Papa and Mamma Penguin lead the little ones to the edge of the water and push them over into it. If the babies flounder around and try to scramble back upon the land the parents hold them under the waves until to save themselves they strike out with their little feet, and suddenly they find that they can swim.

"'Then how they love it! The babes can hardly be coaxed out of the water!

"'I wish you could see what queer wings the Penguins have. They can't fly a length, but they use them for paddles when they are in the water and for front feet when they are on land. Run! Well, you ought to see them. They can go almost as fast as I can swim, and that is saying a good deal. When Penguins are not in a hurry they walk upon their webbed feet, standing upright just as the Two-Legs do!'"

"THE PENGUINS WERE READY TO WELCOME HIM"

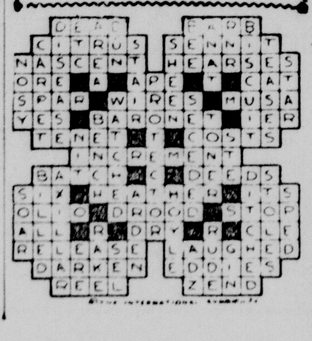

OBSOLETE

"What is a whippletree?" asks the Sioux Falls Argus-Leader. "What is a thill? These once-familiar words have a strange sound in this motorized age. For the benefit of the younger generation it may be necessary to explain that whippletrees and thills are essential parts of a buggy."

Oh, yes, to be sure. And what is a buggy?—Detroit News.

Men Signing Up For Fat Men's Reducing Classes At The Y. M.

Well, they'll soon be at it, and "they" means some score of jolly fat men of the city!

Following the call of Walter Kirker, physical instructor of the local Y. M. C. A., for candidates for the fat men's reducing class several have already answered the call. From all reports, there is going to be a big bunch there and when we say big bunch we mean big bunch.

The fun in the whole thing is that in addition to the panting and falling and big drops of sweat from big men the weight, diameter, waist line and so on will be taken of the entire group and results noted in that fashion.

Imagine a report which will say "Went down 80 pounds today, the net weight now being only 2466 pounds compared to a net weight of 3382 of two weeks ago. The waist line has shrunken 58 and 19-20 inches since yesterday. The gym floor has sagged perceptibly but in another week it is thought that the strain will not be so great!" So much for that.

You can still register for the fat man's class until Oct. 1, states Kirker but you had better get the registrations in early. A lot of fun is in store for the entrants and when the time is up the classes may be too full.

This will be the first class for fat men. A number of women's classes have been held at the Y. W., and several men have asked why they could not have a class. It's here.

Birds Outspeed Plane In Atlantic Flight

1500 Lapwings Make 2200-Mile Non-Stop Trip From Europe To U. S.

An unheralded flight from Europe to America last winter, without receptions or any publicity, is revealed by H. F. Whitherby in the latest issue of "British Birds." The fliers were lapwings, 1500 more or less, who crossthe Atlantic in a non-stop flight of 2200 miles last December.

Birds as well as human beings find the crossing of the ocean from east to west much harder than in the other direction. There are few records of bird flights to America. The lapwing migration is notable for the number of birds in the two flocks that crossed. There were 590 in the first group and 1000 came the next day. There is no question about the feat, because the lapwing is not an American bird.

One which was captured had a legband showing that it had been marked in Lancashire, England. The conditions of the migration were unusually favorable, which was lucky for the birds, as lapwings are not strong flyers. A cold spell had frozen the feeding grounds and the birds had to seek new ones. For some reason they turned westward.

They were blown by a wind moving at a rate of fifty-five miles an hour. As the lapwing can fly forty-five miles an hour, it is estimated that the birds crossed in less than twenty-four hours. Only eight times previously have lapwings been recorded in America and usually they have been solitary birds. Nothing like the two big flocks were ever known before to cross the ocean.

Post Cards From Europe

CABOURG, Normandy, Sept. 14.—One of the most amusing pearl-necklace mysteries in many seasons on this frantically fashionable coast occured this summer. Those who claim to know all the details of the story tell it thus:

A rich New York lady arrived in advance of her husband by a few weeks. She occupied her leisure in a flirtation with a dancing man, who indelicately made away with a handsome string of pearls.

Although suspicious of the theft, the lady decided simply to report the string as "lost." The insurance company paid, but sent one of its keenest detectives to investigate the circumstances—naturaly without informing the lady in the case.

The detective hired on as a waiter, and lost no time in becoming intimately acquainted with the New York lady's maid, who told him all about her mistress's affair with the dancer, who by now had skipped to Paris. The detective followed him there, and was not greatly astonished to find that the dancer's most intimate girl friend was sporting the missing necklace. The dancer, when tackled, admitted the theft, but reasonably suggested that if he were arrested the whole story of his flirtation with Mrs. Gotham would come out—and that her husband, who had now arrived, would be far from pleased.

The detective saw the point, and decided to arrange everything to everybody's satisfaction. He returned to the coast with the necklace and the dancer's girl-friend, restored the jewel to its owner against restitution of the insurance money, less expenses, and then introduced Mrs. Gotham's unsuspecting husband to the demoiselle from Paris.

In a few days the latter was seen wearing a string just as handsame as the one she had been obliged to surrender. And Mr. Gotham still wonders why his wife never complained about his assiduous attentions to the Parisienne.

And the moral of that is that where there is plenty of money, morals are superfluous.

So-called friends of a bridal couple in Philadelphia handcuffed them together as a joke. It sounds as if it might have originated in Babbitt Center or environs, where charivari parties flourish.

Fifty Years Of Journalism Portrayed By Jim Borland

Managing Editor Of Franklin News-Herald Writes Of Experiences

Started In Newspaper Business By Publishing "Schoolboy" Weekly

Fifty years is a long time, and into fifty years one can crowd a host of experiences, especially if he spends it in the newspaper "game" as James B. Borland, managing editor of the Franklin, Pa., News-Herald has done.

Grim ghosts of the past and shadows of those now living, flicker across the screen of his "Fifty Years in the Newspaper Game," published recently from the press of the Chapple Company of Boston. In straightforward prose, old days are lived over again: days in which the newspaper business was not as rushed as it is at the present time: and days in which the reporters often took their trick at the case, setting their copy "out of their heads."

"Jim" Borland started in the newspaper business when but a mere lad. The first of his publications which could be called a newspaper, was published in March, 1877, under the title of the Venango Star. Soon it was discontinued, as the swimming hole called the boys—for there were two, the other being Cecil L. Griffin—away from the case. However, in September it was revived as a weekly publication.

The Star was kept going until Mr. Borland conceived the idea of issuing a real amateur daily. So it happened that on Monday, February 18, 1878, The Evening News was launched as a candidate for public favor, carrying this statement on its mast head: "The only daily paper in the world, edited, printed and published entirely by boys."

A fac-similie of the first edition of the new daily, as reproduced in the book, is interesting in the extreme. Under Nursery News is found: "Report is that Mrs. Stock (Carrie L. Smith) who figured quite conspicuously an a bigamy case last week, is not expected to live," and the editorial admonition, "Be at the polls early tomorrow morning. 'Vote early and often.'"

Then Mr. Borland gives an account of journalism in Franklin and the struggles which he had in keeping the Evening News on its feet, ending with an account of the consolidation of The Evening News with the Venango Herald, effected in May, 1919.

Another thing of interest to the fourth estate is Mr. Borland's account of the "fake armistice," which, to this day, he believes was the true signing of the pact. It will be remembered that the "false armistice" news was given out November 7, 1918 as a United Press scoop. Later, when the report remained unverified, it was declared false, but Mr. Borland believes that an armistice was signed that day, but the signatures were unsatisfactory to Marshal Foch, and he demanded another set of signatures from the new German government.

But it is when Mr. Borland is telling of his old friends that he is most interesting. A newspaper man necessarily must have many friends, and those friends, in many cases, are scattered throughout the country. Often they are nationally known figures. Mr. Borland must have had a personal acquaintance with every lecturer who ever came to Franklin, and he tells many amusing stories about each one.

Far too short is Mr. Borlands eulogy to the old time "tramp printer" who would work for a few days at one plant and then move on to the next. He is a figure in American journalism that is fast disappearing: in fact, there are few left.

The ethics of a small town newspaper man are ably illustrated in the envoi to his book, when he says: "Here's an ideal I have always cherished, and if all newspapers could follow it, how much better off the world would be: To boil all reports of crime to a dozen lines and then to relegate them to an obscure corner of an inside page and to give no details of divorce trials or scandals of any kind. In other words, I would play up the good things in place of the sordid ones, for I think the tendency is too great to do that with the latter. And I venture the prediction that the newspaper that pursues that policy would gain more readers than it would lose."

Fred L. Rentz, president of The News company, is the possessor of an autographed copy of Mr. Borland's Fifty Years in the Newspaper Game. The autograph follows: To Mr. Fred L. Rentz, also old in the game, one of the best and most loyal of his friends with the appreciation and well wishes of the author.

"James B. Borland,
"August 30, 1928."

Mr. Rentz' copy is number 17 of an edition limited to 800.

Sentence Sermons

By Rev. Roy D. Smith, D. D.

IF YOU PLAY WITH—

Sin, you cannot complain if death stays close by.
Opportunity, do not object if she takes offense and moves on.
Your loyalties, they will soon die on your hands.
Public trust, you will never again have private satisfaction.
The faith of a little child, you will lose the respect of the man.
A good reputation, do not be surprised if it disappears.
God, it will pay to remember that He always has the last move.

GROVE CITY

A large number of the members of the Grove City Country club were present last evening for the benefit bridge, which was held at the club house. Mrs. J. G. Carruthers and Mrs. George Monroe were in charge of the affair and one of the best parties of the season was enjoyed by those attending.

Mrs. Gregg Hosack will be hostess to the members of the Loyalty Bible class of the Presbyterian church on Friday evening in her new home on Park street. This is a change from the original date, which was set for yesterday evening.

Gymn classes in the local high school are scheduled to start next Monday. As usual the girls' classes will be held in the morning and the boys in the afternoon. They will hold one each week in the old gym. New equipment added this year includes handball, trapeze, flying rings, jumping standards and basketball nets, for the old gym. Professor Hubert Jack, instructor for boys, states that there will be no special work in gym until after the football season is over.

Miss Beatrice Atwell, instructor for girls, states that the classes will have special work as follows: Eighth grade military marching and tumbling, freshmen and sophomores, Danish gym. The work for junior and seniors has not been announced.

Seven delegates of the Grace Methodist Episcopal church here are attending the annual conference of the Erie Conference of the M. E. church at Erie, this week as members of the Laymen's association. They are, T. J. Robinson, C. M. Slater, M. O. Robins, W. F. Rossman, Ira Matthews. W. M. Lockard and F. K. Squiers.

No Winner In Non-Stop Race

Goebel Completes Cross-Continent Hop, But Makes One Stop

HALDEMAN DOWN IN NEW MEXICO

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14—The non-stop section of the national air races was today without a winner, the officials having declared it "no contest."

This decision was given out after it was learned that no one of the nine fliers who took off from New York late Wednesday was able to make Los Angeles without a stop.

Art Goebel, winner of the Hawaiian Dole race and a favorite in the national non-stop derby, landed his Lockheed-Vega monoplane at Mines Field here at 3:20 yesterday afternoon and at first it was believed he had won the race.

Goebel Nips Celebration

Just as the crowd was loosing its plaudits for the "home town" boy, Goebel himself nipped the budding celebration by calmly announcing that he had been forced down at Prescott, Arizona. Thus, practically within hailing distance of his goal, Goebel became disqualified.

He was the only one of the nine starters to reach the finish line. George Haldeman of Detroit, came nearest of the other eight, managing to get his Bellanca plane as far as Albuquerque, N. M., according to reports reaching here. He was forced down by a storm and shortage of fuel.

Of the seven other planes that hopped from New York Wednesday, one has been demolished in a crash, severely injuring two occupants, and the six other had been forced down by various causes.

Plane Crashes

The plane that crashed was the Lockheed-Vega in which John P. Morris and William Thaw II were flying. Their motor drained of oil by a broken oil line, they made a landing in a field near Decatur, Ill., in the dark, early yesterday. A wire fence wrecked the ship completely, so badly injuring Morris and Thaw that they were reported in serious condition today.

None of the other pilots was hurt in the several foced landings of the other ships.

Art Goebel made the announcement of his landing at Prescott—disqualifying him for the race prize—immediately after landing at Mines Field. But the crowd at the field—between 80,000 and 90,000 spectators, ignorant of the landing enroute, believed Goebel had won the race and went wild with cheering and applause. But their cheers were no less hearty after they had been informed of Goebel's hard luck.

Both Goebel and Harry Tucker, his passenger and owner of the "Yankee Doodle"—the red, white and blue monoplane—were dead tired when they landed.

The plane itself was badly damaged. A door had been torn off, two windows were smashed, and there were several holes in the fuselage, which was so streaked with oil that it looked like anything but the prim-tri-colored ship it was when it took off from New York.

Hardly able to talk from exhaustion, Goebel and Tucker gasped a story of almost unbelievable hardships on the flight. "We had to fight all the way," said the pilot.

Somewhere in the night, Tucker opened the door to throw out a gas can—and the wind ripped the door from his hands, smashed it against the side of the plane, breaking two windows and knocking several holes in the side, and tore it off its hinges to send it hurtling into the night. Tucker was cut by flying glass.

"Several times during the night I though we were gone," said Tucker, describing the terrible weather the plane encountered.

At Prescott, Goebel realized he had not enough gas to finish the hop, and landed. It took little more than an hour to refuel the plane with 65 gallons of gas—enough to take them to Los Angeles over the rest of the route, still fraught with danger because of bumpy air.

Examining Boys For Gym Classes

To date a great number of boys have been examined at the local Y. M. C. A., state physical directors, for the fall and winter gym classes which will start October 1. No boy will be admitted into the classes wthout a physicial examination of this sort.

The reason for the physical test, they say, is not to keep the unfit out of the classes but to record the size, weight and strength of the boy and thus an efficient checking can be made as time goes along and the boy's development can be determined. The heart and lungs are also tested and the boy gains a knowledge of just how he stands physically.

Physical directors state that it is important that every one be examined prior to October 1 who are in the classes.

Colonial Fashions To Hide Knees, But Show More Above Waist Line

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Fashion has decreed that women's skirts shall be longer, but this does not mean that legs are going out of style or that petticoats will stage a comeback.

The display of knees — dimpled, knobby and other varieties—is no longer considered good form, while the skirts appear longer—down to the ankles in extreme instances. Quite a bit more of the lady appears at the other end of the dress, which is cut almost to the waist line in the back and quite liberally in front.

The outstanding motif in forthcoming gowns is best described as billowy, much lace, much fluffiness and a decided return to styles of Civil War days. There are gloved arms, hip line jackets with ruffles, military capes, gowns all fuzzy and dainty with fifty yards of lace in the skirt and tight bodices form a startling revision to the styles of sixty or more years ago.

Browns and ambers, chiefly in velvet, lead, but hectic reds and emerald greens have a large following. Hem lines will be irregular, but the waist is back in its normal position. The Fashion Art League, which opens its convention tomorrow, has on display a remarkably beautiful line of the newest styles and the majority of them accentuate the blurred, billowy line, distinctly feminine throughout.

Governor Smith Getting Ready To Start First Tour

Will Leave Albany Sunday For Speaking Tour Of Mid-West

PLANS AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN IN FUTURE

Defensive Part Of His Campaign Is About Over For Candidate

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Governor Smith has about completed the first phase of his campaign for the presidency—the defensive—and is ready to begin the second phase—the offensive.

He is immensely pleased at the reaction to his expose of the whispering campaign as evidenced by the commendatory telegrams and messages which continued to pile up on his desk today and he is determined to "swat it again" whenever the opportunity presents itself.

To Be Aggressive

Nevertheless, when he leaves Albany on Sunday and faces westward for his first swing about the country, he will meet audiences in eight states in the role of an aggressive candidate with something to propose rather than with something to defend.

Governor Smith has not been insensible to murmurs of criticism that, save for his speech of acceptance, his campaign thus far has been largely one of defense against attacks partisan, religious, personal and otherwise. From Dr. John Roach Straton to William Allen White he has answered them all, or nearly all. His action in dragging the whispering campaign into the open in such spectacular fashion is the capstone of his campaign of defense.

The governor has considered that this was a necessary part of the preparatory cultivation for the real campaign which opens with his departure from Albany the day after tomorrow. After his inaugural speech in Omaha next Tuesday in which he will elaborate upon his views on farm relief, the governor expects to be too busy to spend much time replying to critics.

His Own Campaign

To those who have questioned the wisdom of this long campaign of defense Governor Smith has set forth that there is an unusual set of conditions in this campaign, and that besides he must conduct his campaign in his own way, in the way that is natural to him. It is his nature to hit back when attacked.

Moreover, the governor feels there is yet ample time for him to get his views before the country. He subscribes to the theory that a telling speech in the last fortnight of the campaign is worth two speeches in August, when election day is still three months away. His campaign for the governorship of New York have been conducted with concentration in the last six weeks the fact that he has been successful in four out of five of those ventures has rather confirmed him in his opinion.

When Governor Smith faces his audience in Omaha next Tuesday night, he will have exactly seven weeks to go. In those seven weeks he plans to drive hard, East, West and South, with a series of speeches that leave the country in no doubt as to where he stands upon every major issue of the campaign— from prohibition to foreign affairs.

Two of these seven weeks will be taken up by the trip upon which he is then engaged. He is going West to talk about agricultural relief, water power, the tariff, inland waterways, taxation, flood-control—and prohibition.

Before he returns to Albany on October third, the Democrats executive committee will have mapped out for him other trips—into the border states of Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee, with possibly a visit to North Carolina; he will visit Maryland, and probably Philadelphia. Final decisions on other points have not yet been made, but he will close the campaign in the East with a tour of the wet Atlantic seaboard states, and a final smashing close in his native New York.

Today and tomorrow, the governor plans to spend in winding up state affairs, for he does not expect to spend much time in his gubernatorial chair from now on.

Naturally you'd expect some log-rolling before the speakers take to the stump.—The Savannah Morning News.

Constables' Rights Defined By Court In Shulack Case

Can Go Outside Their Own Districts And Make Arrests Anywhere In County

The case of Thomas Shulack of Hillsville, charged with the possession of liquor, which has been on trial before Judge Hildebrand in county court for the past two days, went to the jury about noon today. This is a case in which officers raided the Shulack home during a dance and got into a fight with Shulack and some of the guests when liquor was found.

The defense questioned the right of the constables, who were from Pulaski and Hickory townships and this city, to raid the place. In his charge Judge Hildebrand said that constables have a right to make arrests in any part of the county. He also told the jury that the fight which was started with the officers had nothing to do with the case so far as the guilt or innocence of Shulack on the charge of possessing liquor was concerned.

The primary question for the jury was whether or not liquor was found on the Shulack premises. The testimony showed that after the officers went into the house they saw a man emptying a bottle in a wash boiler. The bottle, which was secured, was partly filled and more was secured from the wash boiler. This liquor tested 5 1-2 per cent alcohol, according to the chemist. It was after this bottle had been filled up in the wash boiler that the attack upon Officers McClenahan, Miller and Graham and others started.

Further search of the house was made and liquor found in the cellar which analyzed 30 per cent alcohol, according to the witnesses. Shulack claimed the only beverage was pop and near beer.

Ready To Open Branch Library In Seventh Ward

New Library On Liberty Street Will Be Open To Public Beginning Monday

An invitation is extended to the reading public of New Castle by the Free Public Library to attend the opening of the new Mahoning branch of the public library located in the Seventh Ward. The new branch, now located in the Solomon building at the corner of Liberty street and Wabash avenue will be open to the public beginning Monday, September 17.

Hours for the newly enlarged branch will be from 9:30 a. m. until 9 o'clock in the evening. The opening Monday will follow a period of three weeks in which the library has been closed.

Previous to this time, the library in the Seventh Ward has been located in the school building. As more room was needed for the pupils of the school the library entered this new location.

The room is located at the rear of the Solomon building on Wabash avenue. A large room has been procured and it is the finest branch library that the Mahoning branch has had in the history of public library development in the city.

Lindy Junior Club

Dear Boys and Girls:

I was so tickled to learn that we had so many bright members in our club that I could scarcely wait until today to print their names! But first I am going to tell you the correct answers to the "Questionaire" which was printed last week, so that those who were unable to answer all of the questions, may learn the answers, which are as follows:

1. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.
2. Amelia Earhart.
3. Noah.
4. Cinderella.
5. Abraham Lincoln.
6. George Washington.
7. Christopher Columbus.

And now I'm sure that you are waiting anxiously to hear the names of our hard-working members, so here they are:

ALBERTA DAVIS, who says that she enjoys our club very much.

PAUL DAYTNER.

GEORGE FORREST DICKSON, age 9.

EARL HAMMOND, who says he is a steady reader of our club and thinks it very interesting.

GRACE L. HOU'ETTE, of Edinburg.

AURELIA MORAN.

LENORA PATTER, age 9.

MARGARET ROSE SEITCH.

MAXINE SHOAFF.

ALAN SHERMAN.

I also received a very lovely letter from a little Pittsburgh girl who reads our club section every week. She enclosed a story and a poem which she wrote all herself. I am sure you will enjoy reading them and so I am going to print them for you. Perhaps if you sometimes write a little story or poem and send it to MA NEWC, she will publish it for you, too. Don't forget to watch for our Club section next Friday.

Your Friend,
MA. NEWC.

THE STORY LADY
By BAYLA RUTH VIXMAN, Age 13.

There was once a crippled lady who always had to lie on her back. She had nothing to do, this lady, so she decided that she would write stories and poems for little children.

One of her stories was called "The Rose's Trouble". Because she wrote stories, she was called the Story Lady. Here is one of her stories.

THE ROSES'S TROUBLE

Mary was a little girl who liked flowers. Every day she would pick flowers for her mother. Usually she picked roses—her mother's favorite flower.

One day Mary saw a beautiful rose. It was pink with a tint of yellow. Mary picked it and ran in to show it to her mother. While she was gone, a curious thing happened. A tiny little creature came out of the rose next to the root of the one Mary had plucked. The rose fairy (for so it was) screamed, "Give me back my child!" (for her child had been in the beautiful rose!))

Just then Mary came out and picked the rose containing the mother fairy. She put it in the vase with its child (unknowingly). So,

"All was well and all was right,
"For the fairy rose had her child in sight."

MARY BROWN
(The Story Lady's Poem)

1

Little Mary Brown
Was a girl in our town,
Who played the livelong day.
When she was at play
Then she was quite gay—
Was this little Mary Brown.

She never would come when her mother would call,
Or even when her Daddy, strong and tall
Cried, "Mary! come here right away!"
For Mary, you see, did love to play
And in reply she always did say,
"Ho, let me play! I'd rather any day!"

3

One day Mary's friends all ran away,
They said with her, they would not play.
Because her mother and father she did disobey.
So Mary went back into the house
And she was as quiet as a little mouse.
She helped her mother the livelong day
And now her friends again with her play.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

When it's raining and there is no sun
Some things to make are lots of fun!

A PRETTY FLOWER POT

To make a very pretty flower pot use a coffee can, or any other round deep bottomed container. Next, hunt up some old rolls of wall paper from the attic and choose a pretty flowered pattern from among them, being sure that it is not too light. (A light paper will stain too easily) Then measure the length of the can and the distance around the top. Using one of the measurements as the length and the other as the width cut a piece of the wall paper. (It is best to cut the paper a little large to allow for the lapping-over of the two edges when it is fitted around the can.) Then paste it onto the can and your pot is nearly completed. Be sure to punch holes in the bottom so that the water will drain through, into the saucer which you will set your flower pot. Fill the pot with rich black earth and plant in it either bulbs of flowers. Pretty ferns also may be brought from the woods to drape their green lace over its flowered sides. A row of these gay pots will brighten the darkest room and what a lovely gift they will make for mother!

OUR WEEKLY "DON'T" FOR CHILDREN.

A TRIP THROUGH THE PITTSBURGH MUSEUM

Of course, many and many of my little friends have been to Pittsburgh and many and many of them have been through the Carnegie Museum. And so, if you have seen Pittsburghs "Wonderland" Museum already, the series of articles about it, will not interest you as much as those who have never had the chance to see it.

Let us close our eyes for a minute, and imagine that we are flying to Pittsburgh in a huge airplane. We land in front of a large stone building, in front of which, sit immense statues of great scholars. But we are anxious to enter the doors above which is printed: "THE CARNEGIE MUSEUM OF PITTSBURGH." As we come into the marble interior of the building, the first room we see contains a few carved Arches and sculptured Gods and Goddesses of the ancient Greeks and Romans. Their figures are perfect and as we look at them we realize that the reason that the ancients were so strong of arm and so fleet-footed, was because they took such excellent care of their bodies. Among the Romans and Greeks, we see no round-shouldered, slouching, or tottering women in high heels! On one of the walls there is carved a picture of a favorite King of the ancients who is eating a bowl of soup. The story goes that whatever this king did, was carved in stone, so that in the future, people might have a record of his life.

The next room contains more carved arches and entrances to great cathedrals. In many of these entrances, figures of the Saints look down at us from their great height.

(Next week, I'll tell you about the Indian room.)

POEMS EVERY CHILD SHOULD READ

(Selected)

Before the busy merchant,
Stood pretty little Bess,
"I want some cloth for dolly, Enough to make a dress."

"What color, little lady?"
The pleasant dealer said:
"Why, don't you know," she answered,
"I want it awful red."

He smiled and cut the fabric
For the delightful little miss;
"What does it cost?" she questioned,
He answered, "Just one kiss."

And then the clerks who heard her
Went laughing up and down,
"My grandma said she would pay you

Lady Pickpockets Cluster In New York's Subway Jams

Have Special Sign To Show Detectives That They Are "Not Working"

Motion Picture Executive Crosses Atlantic To Spend Hour In Los Angeles

By CLARK KINNAIRD
(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to the New Castle News)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—A detective tells me that most of the pickpockets in New York are women. Their favorite "working places" are crowded subway trains. ("Crowded subway trains" is tautological: subway trains is sufficient.)

Women are more successful as pickpockets because men do not suspect women of committing such a crime outside of the home. A not unwelcome jostle from a delicately perfumed woman, an apologetic smile in which the man removes his hat, taking his arm away from the breast pocket in which he most likely carries his wallet, and the money is gone. The purse is quickly passed to a confederate, and then to another who removes the money and disposes of the empty wallet immediately, either by slipping it in some one's pocket or tossing it from the train. At the next station the "mob" gets cut.

However, pickpockets become known quickly to detectives who constanly ride the subways for the purpose of catching them. Many of these women pickpockets also are shoplifters, and their faces become familiar to police from shoplifting arrests.

In turn, the detectives are usually known by sight to the pocket-picking fraternity, and members of the latter go to all sorts of lengths to disguise themselves. When such a woman crook "goes straight" or is on probation and isn't working, she has a sign to indicate to a detective that she isn't "on the make." Those who give this sign of assurance to detectives rarely violate it. It is part of the code of honor among thieves that it shall not be violated.

A cable from Paris says the Egyptian obelisk there is moving and threatens to fall. A sister to this obelisk is in New York Central Park and another on the Thames embankment. It was a gift of the Egyptian government to New York that possibly beer per cent of New Yorkers (one-tenth of one per cent) know about. It has so eroded from the wind and rain that scarcely a trace of the ancient inscriptions remain; but it is the oldest piece of writing in New York, and one piece of art that a newly rich millionaire can't collect.

Speaking of travelers, a motion picture executive crossed the Atlantic twice to spend an hour in Los Angeles the other day. He was gone from his London headquartes less than two weeks. He flew from New York to Los Angeles and return. Next year he expects to be able to make the same trip in half the time, by flying from the ship to shore and from shore to ship. All of the new liners are being equipped with catapults preparatory to general inauguration of combined ship-airplane transatlantic service.

Fear Is Given As Cause For Murder

BEAVER, Sept. 14.—A new kind of defense, "fear murder," will be offered by Amedio D'Amore, 26, Italian, Aliquippa, who went on trial yesterday in connection with the murder of his older brother, James D'Amore, 36, at Aliquippa, on June 7, last. It was defendant they would set up the plea that Amedio was in "fear of his life" and shot his brother, when he believed he would be killed himself.

Scantily Attired School Teachers Are Criticized

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 14. — School teachers in the borough of Dunbar, near here, must wear ample clothing when they appear before their classes. Members of the board of education have indicated they think the garb of some of the feminine instructors is insufficient and that steps will be taken to remedy this situation.

One director attended a teachers' meeting and told the pedagogues that lack of clothing had a harmful effect on the students. The board may determine just how far from the floor a teacher's dress may be cut.

No definite steps are anticipated this year but it is probable that all contracts will contain a clause, when the corps is signed for next term, dictating the matter of proper clothing. The board is said to favor compulsory wearing of smocks by all teachers.

PLAINGROVE

SCHOOL NOTES

The doors of the Plaingrove Centralized school were thrown open September 10, 1928, for students eager to obtain knowledge.

Clyde Meyers, principal, Miss Helen Barnes and William Rainey are members in the high school faculty. Mr. Aiken is the instructor in music. The grade faculty consists of Miss Mary Bingham, teacher of grades one and two, Miss Edna Miller, teacher of grades three and four, Miss Alice Millford is the instructor of grades five and six, and Clare Brown, of grades seven and eight.

Many students were enlisted in the school enrollment. Grades one and two have thirty-two pupils, three and four, 33 pupils, five and six, 39, seven and eight, 46 and the high school also has an enrollment of 46 students. The entire number enrolled is 196.

A fine new addition is being built to accommodate the many students in a more comfortable manner. An auditorium, which can be used also for a gymnasium and class rooms, is being added and will add greatly to our comfort. The building will be most conveniently equipped and will at its completion, meet all state requirements.

AUTOMATIC TUNING

WHAT you want, when you want it, in a split-second! That's Automatic Tuning.

Press the button, there's your station!

No more log-books, no delays, no apologies for the noisy intervals between stations. A five-year-old can give a perfect program.

Set the keys yourself, for your personal favorites. Tune-in by the old way, too, for other stations. Or change the keys to new favorites at any time. Without tools.

Gone the fussing and fumbling. Gone the intervals of noise while tuning. And the last technical operation—separate adjusting for each station, each time you want it—gone too!

All this week, hear the sensational "Station-a-Second" demonstration. You've never imagined radio could be so enjoyable, so trouble-free. Just press the button, and listen—to the station of your choice. Press another, and listen. That's all!

See Zenith's newest triumph today. The greatest improvement since the all-electric set.

30 different models—3 different circuits—6, 8 and 10 tubes, including DeLuxe, Automatic and Phonograph models—with or without loop or antenna—battery or fully electric—$100 to $2500. "Automatic Radio" Owned and Controlled by The Zenith Radio Corp., Chicago, U. S. A., under the following patents: Vasselli 1581145, Re-issue 17002, Heath 1638734, Canada 264391, Gt. Britain 257138, France 607436, Belgium 331166. Also under Marvin and other U. S. and foreign patents pending.

Model 35AP (Illustrated)
The Zenith completely Electric All Metal Chassis equipped with Automatic Tuning and Dynamic speaker. "High-Boy" Console of figured walnut veneers with walnut legs, stretcher and apron carving.

When your Zenith Automatic is delivered—you yourself at home—in one minute—without tools—set the Automatic tuner to your desired stations; and there they are—forever—right on the exact wave—unless you yourself decide to change. Now you can actually tune a station a second at the touch of a button. All Zeniths may also be tuned by the old fashioned single dial method.

Commemorate Constitution On September 17

Governor Fisher Calls On Pennsylvania Citizens To Observe Day

DOCUMENT IS NOW OVER 140 YEARS OLD

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14.—Governor John S. Fisher in a statement today asked the citizens of the commonwealth to commemorate Monday, September 17, the 141st anniversary of the singing of the Federal Constitution.

"In its perpetuity and in the sacred regard in which it is held by those in public office and private life are to be found the guarantees for the future of our country," the governor's statement said.

The governor suggested that the annual anniversary is an appropriate time for all citizens to refresh their memories on both the test of the Constitution and the personalities of its authors.

The text of the governor's statement follows:

"Monday, September 17, 1928, will be the 141st anniversary of the signing of the Federal Constitution. More and more the day is being observed as one of the great historic events in our national life. In truth there is no single incident surpassing in importance the birth of constitutional liberty, as embodied in this great instrument of government. Under it we have experienced an expansion of population, wealth and power unmatched anywhere in the world. The future security of our existence as a nation and our continued happiness and welfare as a people are bound up in the preservation of the fundamental law which has made us all that we are. In its perpetuity and in the sacred regard in which it is held by those in public office and private are to be found the guarantee for the future of our country.

"Therefore, I, John S. Fisher, governor of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, call on all the citizens of our commonwealth to commemorate Monday, September 17, 1928, as Constitution Day, and as an appropriate time to refresh our memories of the text of the constitution of the United States, of its authors and their aspirations, of its preservation and development through the struggles and changes of the years, of its benign influence in preserving and extending the cause of free government, and of the duty of all citizens to revere is as the source and assurance of our national welfare and happiness.

"JOHN S. FISHER,
"Governor of Pennsylvania."

French Experts On Falling Birth Rate Blame Cigarettes

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Nativity experts are trying to establish plausible connection between the falling birth rate and the increasing cigarette consumption. Be that as it may, the fact remains that while nativity has decreased, the French, who in 1861 smoked only seven million cigarettes, today consume close to eleven billion, an increase of fifteen hundred per cent in sixty-seven years.

Those who know say that the women are responsible for a considerable part of the increase. But the optimists point out that, allowing for eleven billion cigarettes, the consumption represents only 270 cigarettes per capita per annum, whereas Germany shows 600 and the United States over 300.

Constitution Week Will Be Observed

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 14.—Plans were made at the meeting of the Kiwanis club of Grove City this week to observe Constitution Week at the meeting of the club next week. A speaker will be secured to address the members upon the national constitution. The program this week was in charge of Charles Loney. Dr. Harold Daugherty a guest of the club, presided at the piano. The program was devoted to group singing. Mr. Don Corbin, newly elected music instructor of the local high school, was present as a guest.

MERCER NEWS

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, paid Congressman T. C. Cochran of this district, a compliment that reflects credit on his district in his address here during the Tuesday program.

The secretary stated that not in his recollection had there come to Washington a Congressman that had made the impression in one session of the house that Mr. Cochran had.

He stated that the result was due to the hard work done by the legislator. Mr. Cochran is a Mercer attorney who served his first term in the Congress in 1927-1928.

The mercantile tax in Mercer county for 1928 shows an increase of $1,779.42 over that collected in 1927.

The total for this year is $38,676.42. That for 1927 totals $36,897.80.

Of the 2000 taxable merchants in Mercer county this year, 1740 of them have made payment of their tax to date.

It is estimated between those who registered and those who were here and did not register, that 500 former residents of this town were back on Tuesday for the Old Home Week program.

There will be over 1000 here during the week that claim Mercer as a former place of residence.

Penn State Prexy Praises Training Received At Home

Dr. Hetzel Greets 1200 Freshmen Students Entering Penn State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 14.—Appreciation of the home environment from which they came, was urged upon the class of 1200 freshmen entering the Pennsylvania State College, by Dr. Ralph Dorn Hetzel, president of the institution, at the second general assembly of "Freshman Week," which convened here this morning.

"A considerable part of the strength which the Penn State students have they bring from their homes," President Hetzel told the newcomers. "Our students are chosen from the sturdiest stock of the Commonwealth. May I urge that you endeavor to retail all of the strong qualities and virtues with which your home environment has equipped you because on this foundation you can best build the character and able mentality which society has a right to expect from its college bred men and women."

Following the welcome of the President, the new students continued their round of group meetings and lectures arranged for the purpose of getting freshmen accustomed to their surroundings before actual class work begins. The first of the evening mass meetings, conducted by upper classmen, took place Thursday evening.

Business Better At Grove City Plants

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 14.—With the sudden increase in business in the plants of this city, a large number of people are moving here and as a result there is already a shortage of houses. A few weeks ago there was some fifteen or twenty vacant houses in Grove City, but at the present time every house that is at all habitable is occupied and in many cases the families are sharing their quarters in order to make their residence in town. With increased business in the Bessemen Engine Plant, men are coming from distant points and in many instances are fortunate in securing work but are unable to move their families on account of the scarcity of houses.

POLAR EXPLORER FAILS TO SEE NORTH'S DRAMA

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The News.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Captain Robert A. Bartlett, who was skipper of most of Admiral Peary's various ships on the admiral's succession of north polar dashes, is just out with a book—"The Log of Bob Bartlett," he calls it.

And as one of the critics remarks: "Some few (readers) may feel that it lacks a little in color."

While I have not read "The Log"—in fact only heard a few minutes ago that Captain Bob had written it—I know exactly what this chap means, and why.

* * *

When you consider that Bob Bartlett knows what it feels like to be shipwrecked—not once but one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, twelve times—and not mere ordinary shipwrecks, but the kind in which his boat—at least on two occasions—gets caught between a couple of icebergs and skwushed to kindlingwood right under him—that he probably has done more polar traveling, afloat and afoot, than any man living—

When you take all these facts into consideration, you are rather inclined to think that any book he writes cannot very well help being pretty colorful.

The critic referred to evidently was stumped, on reading it, to discover that it was no such thing.

* * *

The simple explanation is that the critic obviously was personally unacquainted with the cap.

The cap's idea is that sealing and whaling, and sailing Arctic seas, and dodging icebergs (not always successfully), and skippering polar expeditions and nothing more than perfectly matter-of-fact ways of making a living.

The captain loafs a good deal, when in Washington, around the navy department, and usually makes his headquarters, during his visits to the capital, at the Army and Navy club.

His cronies at these two places have been nagging him for years, to write a book, and his stock-in-trade answer always had been: "Oh, nobody would be a bit interested." Someone or other appears to have sold him the idea finally, but not to the extent of making him describe his experiences as if there was any element of the dramatic connected with them.

* * *

One day I said to him, myself, "Look, here, cap, the way you tell it, it certainly does sound as if a trip to the north pole was as easy as walking down Pennsylvania avenue.

"Yet the fact remains that a whole lot of middling capable explorers have lost their lives on polar dashes.

How do you account for it?"

* * *

Seemingly the captain never had thought of it in that light.

He plainly found my question a trifle difficult to answer.

The best explanation he could conjure up was that those who perished in the north must have fallen victims to a surplus of equipment.

"A man can't afford to be loaded down with a big cargo of furniture in the Arctic," he told me. "It makes him so slow that the prolonged hardship kills him."

Shanley Will Study Hotel Management

Emmet Mendel Shanley, assistant steward of The Castleton, is leaving the city for Ithaca, N. Y., this evening, where he will enroll in the hotel management course in Cornell University at that place.

Mr. Shanley, who has been with The Castleton practically since its opening, has been filling the position of assistant steward. He is a graduate of Dennison University in the business course and will complete his hotel management course at Cornell in two years.

Dick Stanley, brother of the assistant steward, arrived recently from his home in New Philadelphia, O., and has taken over the duties of assistant steward.

Mrs. Shanley will accompany her husband to Ithaca. She is also a graduate of Dennison and since coming to New Castle has been cashier in The Castleton coffee shop.

The Immensity Of Space

By S. S. MYERS

An inquirer wants to know if there is any limit to space.

The immensity of space is too vast for the human mind to comprehend. We cannot grasp the idea of anything without beginning and without end. Our mind simply wanders around in circles.

Let us imagine that we have a blackboard one hundred feet square, and somewhere near the center of it I draw a circle two inches in diameter to represent our universe. The circle represents the outer rim which is the Milky Way. Each inch of the diameter of the circle represents a distance of fifty quadrillion miles, the entire diameter representing one hundred quadrillion miles, or 200,000 light years. All of the stars or suns which we see with the naked eye are within this circle, yet so far apart that the nearest one to us is so far away that it takes its light a little over four years to reach us, traveling at the rate of 186,330 miles a second.

Dr. Shapley, director of Harvard Observatory, calculates that our solar system is 52,000 light years from the center of the universe and 148,000 light years from the outer rim, which is the Milky Way, and which is composed of suns, many of them a hundred times larger and brighter than our sun, yet so far away that their glowing brilliancy appears to us as merely a ribbon of blended light. This will give us something of an idea of the vast amount of space occupied by our universe.

Now, if we take a tape and measure off 60 inches from the circle representing our universe—30 times its diameter, we will just have reached the nebula seen through the constellation Andromeda, which is one of the nearest of the island or independent universes outside of ours whose light takes one million years to reach us coming through intervening space at the rate of 186,300 miles a second. If that universe should be blotted out of existence right now, it would be a million years before we would know of it because it would take that long for the last ray of its light to reach us.

Astronomers have discovered a large number of these island universes outside of and independent of ours, some of them many times farther away than that seen through Andromeda. We would scarcely have room on our hundred-foot blackboard to represent the comparative distances.

But suppose there is a limit to these universes—what is beyond? The human mind can conceive of nothing but absolute darkness—icy darkness, because interstellar space is heated to some degree by the billions of suns radiating heat as well as light through space. Yet the temperature of interstellar space is more than 350 degrees below zero. What must it be where the diffused heat of these billions upon billions of suns is never felt?

As I said in the beginning, finite mind is incapable of grasping the immensity of space—it merely wanders about in circles.

REVENGE!

"Where are you going?"

"To the next village to post a letter."

"Why not post it here?"

"The postmaster won't buy his eggs off me now and so I won't post my letters in his box."—From Lustige Kolner, Zeitung, Cologne.

Governor Smith refuses to stand squarely on the Democratic platform and a good many Democrats are determined not to stand on the Smith platform. This seems to be a fair case of tit for tat. —The Charleston Daily Mail.

Two Injured; Hit By Auto

Aged Man In Serious Condition As Result Of His Injuries

ACCIDENTS OCCUR ON WASHINGTON ST.

In the accidents reported to the police last night and this morning, there were two in which pedestrians were struck by motorists and injured to such an extent that they had to be removed to the hospitals for treatment. One of the victims is in a very critical condition.

Patrick McCretton, aged 68, of 40 North Beaver street, is in a critical condition at the New Castle hospital, as a result of injuries sustained early last evening, when struck by the automobile operated by Mrs. J. W. Reimold, 27 Smithfield street.

Mr. McCretton has not regained consciousness since being struck by the automobile and may possibly be suffering from a fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries, although this has not yet been definitely determined as yet.

Mrs. Reimold was enroute east on Washington street, at a point west of Beaver street, when Mr. McCretton stepped from the curb in front of 115 West Washington street and started to cross Washington street.

The driver of the car pulled clear to the left curb to avoid hitting him but he was struck by the bumper of the machine and knocked to the pavement, his head striking with considerable force.

The injured man was picked up and hurried to the New Castle hospital, where on examination, it was found that his injuries were serious and his condition critical. At this time, it is not known whether or not he will recover.

Struck at Water Street

Fred E. Singer, 828 East Lutton street, manager of the Hanover Shoe Store, was severely injured about 9 o'clock this morning at the intersection of Water and Washington streets, when struck by the car of Marguerite Mack, 929 Adams street.

Immediately following the accident, because it was feared that he might have sustained serious injuries, he was removed to the Shenango Valley hospital by Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Longstreth, where on examination, it was found that he had sustained a sever laceration of the chin, abrasions of the right arm and left shoulder and injuries over left abdomen.

Mr. Singer was headed west and was walking across the Water street intersecetion of East Washington street, as Marguerite Mack was in the act of making a left hand turn from Washington street into Water street.

As he started across the street intersection, Mr. Singer saw the Mack machine in the act of making the turn and sprang back toward the eact curb of Water street, to avoid being struck.

At the same time, the driver of the machine, Marguerite Mack, saw him and started to turn out to avoid him. The result was that when Mr. Singer apparently slipped on the wet pavement and was hit by the Mack car as he attempted to get to his starting point in crossing the street.

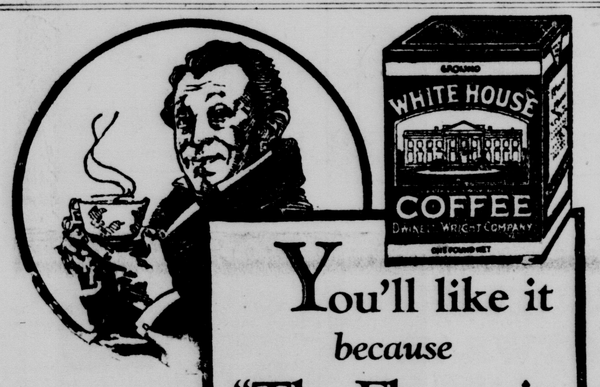

He was dragged several feet by the Mack car and when the car came to a stop, its front wheels were up over the high curb and Mr. Singer was lying underneath one wheel in such a manner as to indicate the possibility that the wheel had gone over him. He was removed from his perilous position and hurried to the hospital. After he had been placed in the hospital, Detective Logan and Officer Longstreth went to his home on Lutton street and brought Mrs. Singer to the hospital.

Other Accidents

Cars of Martin Schlager, 20 West Terrace avenue, and C. C. Kelton of Brooklyn, N. Y. came together today at North Mill and Falls streets, some damage being done. Mr. Schlager was enroute north on Mill street and his machine struck the Kelton car, which was being driven east on Falls street.

A. G. Lusk of 112 West Leasure avenue, was driving south on North Mill street at East Falls street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license X11-146 pulled from East Falls street slowly into the center of Mill street. Mr. Lusk attempted to turn into Falls street to avoid hitting the other machine and hit the rear fender of the other car, doing slight damage.

Pittsburgh Wants Jaworski Back To Pay For Crimes

District Attorney Gardner Says Pennsylvania Should Get Jaworski Back

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14. — "We will make every effort to have Paul Jaworski brought back to Pennsylvania to be electrocuted," Samuel H. Gardner Allegheny county district attorney said this afternoon when informed by International News Service that the county grand jury in Cleveland had indicted the notorious killer on a charge of murdering a Cleveland policeman.

"While I can't say at this time just how we'll go about it, we want Jaworski back here very much, and we'll try to persuade the Cleveland officials to let us have him," Gardner said.

George Murrin, chief of county detectives, now in Cleveland, will make every effort to have the killer returned, Gardner said.

Should Not Charge Goods To Legion

Post Authorizes No Person To Purchase Goods, Is Warning To Merchants

A man giving the name of J. E. Flynn and posing as an ex-soldier, has, according to the report made to the police last night, been making the rounds of a number of the city drug stores, purchasing medicines and having the same charged to Perry S. Gaston Post No. 343 American Legion. The bills in each instance have been for several dollars each and the purchases made were for drugs used by those enduring great suffering or an addict to the drug habit.

A. E. Russell, commander of Perry S. Gaston Post, in reporting the matter to the police last night, stated that the post had authorized no such person, or any person, in fact, to purchase drugs or anything else at the expense of the post and that the post had not and would not pay any such bills.

The police urge that all drug stores and other store proprietors to take warning and refrain from selling goods to those, who want it charged to the American Legion or any other organization or person, without first ascertaining that the purchase in their names have been authorized.

Trucks Are Toppled Into River, Bridge Falls, Drivers Flee

(International News Service)

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 14.—The bridge over the canal along the Delaware river near Lower Black Eddy collapsed today while two heavily- loaded trucks were passing over it. The trucks and their cargoes were dumped into the water.

Authorities are searching for the two drivers who were seen to jump from the trucks and leave the scene of the disaster. The trucks are believed to be loaded with beer bound from Easton to Doylestown or Philadelphia.

Attorney Gets Jail Sentence For Contempt

Comes Late To Trial Of Beitzel, Accused Slayer Of Philadelphia Girl

MURDER TRIAL TO BE DELAYED

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 14.—Trial of Russell St. Clair Beitzel, accused of slaying Barbara Mauger, former Philadelphia girl, was delayed today as the result of Beitzel's attorney, Vernon Hamilton, being sentenced to three days in jail for contempt of court. Hamilton, the court charged, persisted in coming late to the trial.

Joe Fainer, who displaced Hamilton, made a motion for a mistrial. The motion was denied.

Miss Mauger's nude body was found in a canyon near here several weeks ago. She had been shot three times. Beitzel is alleged to have brought the girl here from Philadelphia and to have lived with her as man and wife.

McGraw Denies All Allegations That He Bet On Horses

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 14. — The following telegram was dispatched by John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants to Commissioner of Baseball K. M. Landis in Chicago.

"Absolutely no truth in reports that I have been betting on horses on information furnished by Jockey Allen or anyone connected with him. Furthermore I have never heard from him over the telephone directly or indirectly.

Headlights Blamed For Death Of Man

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 14.—Blinding headlights were today blamed for the automobile accident late last night in which Thomas Winwood, 50, of Brownsville was instantly killed four other persons were seriously injured.

The car, driven by Winwood, sideswiped another car on the Greensburg-West Newton road and ploughed from the road into a field. The other car failed to stop after the accident.

Those in Winwood's car who were injured in the accident are Mrs. Margaret Winwood, 26, widow of the driver; Jean Winwood, their daughter; William Winwood, 58 father of the dead man, and Oliver Winwood, a brother.

Chicago Gangsters Take Over $6,000 From Butcher Shop

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Five men, two armed with revolvers and three with sawed-off shotguns, held up the retail butcher store of Wilson & Co. in the heart of the union stock yards here today and escaped with $5,000 in cash and $1,100 in negotiable checks.

The bandits with shotguns lined up ten employes against the wall while their companions forced Miss Ina Anders, cashier, to turn the money over to them. The men escaped in an automobile.

Perjury Charged To Reading Beer Baron

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.— Max Hassel of Reading, known as the "millionaire newsboy beer baron" today found himself again under indictment by a federal grand jury.

Hassel who has been indicted several times before by the federal courts, was charged with perjury and with attempting to defraud the government of income taxes in 1925.

Prohibition authorities charge Hassel has an interest in at least a dozen breweries. His name was brought into the present probe here of a huge liquor ring when District Attorney John Monaghan revealed the former Reading newsboy was an associate of Max "Boo Boo" Hoff of this city.

EFFORT MADE TO ENTER POOL ROOM

An effort was made to break into and rob the poolroom at 14 West Long Avenue, known as Stanley's Pocket Billiard Parlor, some time during the night according to the report made to the police. They attempted to break in at a window and had broken off the front of the lock of the front door, but were unable to force the rest of the lock and gain an entrance. Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Longstreth investigated the case.

District Governor Speaks To Lions

A. S. Haines Of Wilkinsburg Makes Address At Noon Meeting

At the noon meeting of the New Castle Lions club held in the dining room of the Elks club today, A. S. Haines of Wilkinsburg governor of the fourteenth district of Lion international, was the main speaker, talking on the subject of "Lionism."

The fourteenth district of the Lion organization includes the local club and it was a great honor for the members of the New Castle club to have Mr. Haines as their guest. This was his first visit with the local group of Lions.

Previous to the meeting at noon, Governor Haines attended the meeting of the Lions' board of directors, at which problems relative to the local organization were fully discussed.

Judge To Decide In Ouster Case Of School Directors

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Sept. 14.—Ouster proceedings against four Hanover township school directors ended abruptly today when the four officials were unable to produce records which President Judge William S. McLean insisted upon having in court.

The records, according to the directors, were lost or misplaced when the case was called this morning, counsel for the petitioners were satisfied to rest at the court's suggestion. Defense counsel agreed to rest the case also and permit the court en banc to decide on the evidence. Judge McLean handed down an order, limiting the board's actions, reading a decision.

Still, there isn't much wrong with a people whose sins can be forgotten with the assistance of aspirin.

Farmer Is Gored To Death By Bull

(International News Service)

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 14. — James N. Hampson, 73, was gored to death by a bull on the Hampson farm near Holbrook, Greene county today.

The aged farmer was attempting to return the bull to a pasture from which it had escaped when the infuriated animal turned on him and gored him to death.

The widow and two grown children survive.

STEWART SEES GOTHAM AS 'SMART ALEC' TOWN

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Staff Writer for Central Press and The New Castle News)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—I am not entirely out of sympathy with the hick, in his hatred of the great city—by which, in this country, we are in the habit of meaning New York City.

New York City has nothing on me.

I admit this much—the town is diabolical. Undoubtedly it takes the cake in that respect.

* * *

If fiendishness is a super-quality in a municipality, then I agree that New York City wins over all competitors.

But how else?

Chicago is tougher. Kansas City is wetter. London and Detroit and Philadelphia and Buenos Aires and Tokio and plenty of other places are just as big, to all intents and purposes. After a city passes the million mark it has no more to offer— any more than there is anything hotter in endurable temperatures than 120 degrees Fahrenheit or colder than 32 below zero.

* * *

New York City is not even as big as it thinks it is.

People who walk around on the street level get an exaggerated idea of it. It does seem shut in, down on the ground, and lots of folks never get up in a sky scraper, where they can look out of a window—lots of regular New Yorkers—probably not more than one in 100 of them.

But when you do get up in a skyscraper—like me, now—on the twenty-second story—what do you see?

Why, nothing but a lot of little pewees.

The sidewalks don't look crowded. The other skyscrapers don't scrape. The canyons you hear so much about are only little scratches. And the "L"—the "roaring" old "L" that visitors from Europe write about— and all that kind of bunk! You hardly notice it—from a twenty-second story window.

* * *

A twenty-second story window does not appear so exalted, either, when you are looking out through it.

I would not much more enjoy falling out of my second-story window in Washington than out of this twenty-second story window here in Manhattan. I would impale myself on the area railings in Washington with just as fatal results, in all probability, as I could flatten myself on the pavement below stairs, in Broadway.

And as for neighbors!—I ride down to work every morning on the same street car, in Washington, with three or four senators and about a dozen representatives, not to mention a cabinet member or two—and my little girl and her friends spend their spare time in a playground only across the street from Herbert Hoover's.

What is more, when I am home I do not think of taking on any particular airs about it.

* * *

That is what makes them so irritating—not that they have a cent's worth the better of any of the rest of us. McCook, Neb., with Senator George W. Norris as a resident, has a higher average per capita of intelligence and public righteousness than the entire island of Manhattan—but the Manhattan-ites have such a fatuous air of superiority over the really far superior remaining 95 per cent of the country.

Cur-r-r-se 'em! is what I say—for a lot of city slickers! They are too darn smarty.

EFFICIENT

Hyde—Your wife is very systematic, isn't she?

Parke—Yes, very. She works on the theory that you can find whatever you want when you don't want it by looking where it wouldn't be if you did want it.

An interesting program was carried out at the Indian Run Grange on last Tuesday evening. The degree team and also the tableau were the main features, as the members of the grange put on the various degrees.

Rev. L. W. Miller left on Tuesday morning to attend the conference at Erie, Pa. It is hoped that Rev. Miller will be returned to the Methodist church here.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Welker spent the week-end as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Shaffer of Richfield, Pa.

GETTING THE FACTS FOR MOTHER

The young man suddenly woke up to the fact that his hostess' little daughter was trying to make friends with him. "I say, how old are you?" asked the child. The young man smiled and answered the question, only to meet with another: "Are you married?" He assured the little girl that he was not.

At that moment the hostess (the mother of the ill-mannered daughter) herself appeared, and the little girl turned to her and said: "He's o. k. so far, mother. Is there anything else you want to know?—Montreal Gazette.

Rheumatism In Knee Forced Her To Use Crutches

New Castle Lady Says Ten Herbs Gave Relief And Helped Her In Many Ways

"Ten Herbs has given me relief from rheumatism in my right knee, after I had been compelled to walk on crutches for a long time," was the recent statement of Mrs. Nelly Horst, who lives on Quest Street, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural compound to crowds of men and women. "Your medicine also has benefited me in many other ways," continued Mrs. Horst.

MRS. NELLY HORST

"Besides the rheumatism, my appetite was poor, and I suffered with indigestion after eating. I would seem to fill with gas and bloat, and my tongue was always coated. I had to live on a light diet, chiefly wheat bread and oranges. My nerves were in bad condition. At night I would roll and toss in bed and have to arise four or five times. In the morning I would have a splitting headache. There were severe pains through my back and loins. I was badly constipated, and my skin was sallow.

"I read about Ten Herbs in the paper and finally started using your medicine. My rheumatism has been relieved so that I can get around without the use of crutches. My appetite has improved, and I can eat a greater variety of food, including meat, which I had not eaten for many years. I am free of gas, bloating and burning feeling after a meal. Pains are gone from my back. I sleep soundly, as I do not have to arise at night. My liver has been benefited, and as a result my complexion has greatly improved. Even friends notice how much better I am looking, and I tell them it is the result of my using Ten Herbs. I have been greatly surprised at the benefits your medicine has given me."

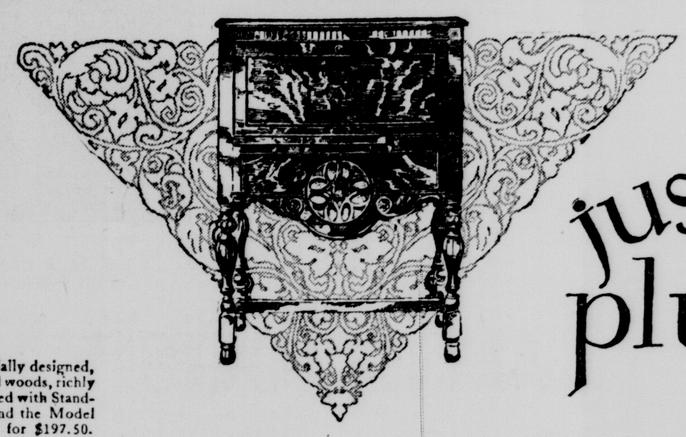

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

New England Plans Shooting Ban To Save Ruffed Grouse

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 14.—New York and New England, once had passenger pigeon and wood duck in profusion. The passenger pigeon was snuffed out completely. Wood duck almost went out for good though their passing may have been halted by conservation methods. Now comes a determined effort on the part of New York and New England to save the ruffed grouse from a fate of the sort that overtook the passenger pigeon, and almost overcame the wood duck.

For, according to F. C. Walcott, of Norfolk, Conn., and New York, who is game commissioner for Connecticut, New York and Massachusetts have put a ban on shooting ruffed grouse, and Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine are very likely to follow suit. Mr. Walcott has asked the governor of Connecticut and the attorney-general to put a similar ban on shooting the bird in Connecticut.

Mr. Walcott points out that 88,000 ruffed grouse have been slain in this state in the past four years. Hunters, disease and vermin have taken this toll....of the vermin the goshawk being the great offender. "Ruffed grouse have been destroyed almost beyond recovery" says Mr. Walcott. "A ban is necessary next fall if we are to save the birds we now have."

With New York and Massachusetts ending the destruction of ruffed grouse Mr. Walcott expects hunters to flock into Connecticut.

HELPED DURING MIDDLE AGE

Woman Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Denver, Colo.—"I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and will take more. I am taking it as a tonic to help me through the Change of Life and I am telling many of my friends to take it as I found nothing before this to help me. I had so many bad feelings at night that I could not sleep and for two years I could not go down town because I was afraid of falling. My mother took the Vegetable Compound years ago with good results and now I am taking it during the Change of Life and recommend it."—Mrs. T. A. Miller, 1611 Adams Street, Denver, Colorado.

Exoneration Is Given Ramsey

Large Personal School Tax Exoneration List Is Acted On By Board

MUCH DISCUSSION AROUSED IN BOARD

Members Feel Exonerations Asked Are Far Too Large, It Develops

After an hour's discussion, and over the strenuous objections of some of the board, the New Castle School Board on Thursday evening passed the exoneration list presented by former City Treasurer Ira M. Ramsey, and approximately $31,000.00 worth of personal taxes assessed for school purposes were exonerated. The exoneration has been hanging fire for several months and was only passed Thursday night because the board felt that since Ramsey was now out of office it was futile to hang the matter up any longer.

The vote to exonerate stood four yes, two no, and one not voting. Vice President Joseph E. Ligo who was in the chair declared the motion lost because a majority of the board was not present. Solicitor Moffatt ruled that this was a question that would be decided by a majority of those present and after reversing his previous ruling Chairman Ligo discussed with the board the advisability of rescinding the action. However no rescinding action was taken and the exoneration stood.

Tax Collector Lax

"It is my opinion that the tax collector was lax in his methods" said Mr. Ligo. "It seems that he thought all he had to do was to come in here with an exoneration list and it would be granted. It's a nice thing to sit in an office and have people come in and pay their taxes. They have been getting money enough that they could afford to burn considerable gas trying to collect these taxes and it seems to me if we would hold up an exoneration list for a couple of years they might make more of an effort to collect the taxes."

"It is unfair" said Mr. Ligo a little later. "While Ramsey is not in office now, yet he is still not exonerated from this list and I am against the exoneration."

"I am like Mr. Ligo" said J. H. McIlvenny. "Down in the seventh ward a lot of taxes are marked for exoneration that I think could be collected. They don't give enough effort to it.

Mr. Duff moved to exonerate Mr. Ramsey from the list, but before the vote was taken, and after he had scanned the exoneration list he said, "since making the motion I find a lot of people in the second ward who can be found and I know can be collected."

Mr. Hazen said that Ramsey was no longer in office and he felt that nothing could be accomplished by holding up the exoneration now. It was Mr. Hazen's opinion that the board should keep a close watch upon the tax list in the future with a view to getting the city treasurer to collect a larger percentage of the taxes than has been done in the past.

On the vote, Campbell, Douthett, Hazen and Duff voted Yes. Ligo and McIlvenny voted No, and Mrs. J. C. Nothdurft was recorded as not voting.

This ended a question that has been before the school board since June. The exoneration list has occasioned trouble each year, the board feeling that the amount asked for exoneration was entirely too high. In other years it has run from $20,000.00 to $25,000.00, but this year the amount asked for exoneration exceeds $31,000.00. This represents the personal and special $5.00 tax assessed by the school board.

Ramsey's term as school treasurer and tax collector expired on July 1, and the exoneration list was first presented in the June meeting. At that time the board refused to grant the exoneration and has held it up until last night. Because of the fact that Ramsey is now out of office it was felt that the easiest way out was to exonerate this list but to scan future lists closely.

Picking Presidents

1789: Least Exciting Of Elections Was First

By CHARLES L. MULLIGAN
Written for Central Press and New Castle News

George Washington was the only president to be picked by unanimous vote of the electors.

To the people it was a case of supplanting an evil George with a good one. The declaration of independence had been aimed not at kings as an institution but at King George III, in particular. Washington, the only candidate in the field at the first presidential election, had the good sense to frown at talk of offering him a crown; the people of the 13 original states were content to make him president for as many terms as he wanted.

The excitement of a presidential year, which is upon us again in 1928 was totally lacking in 1789. The job before the electors was to hurry up and name George Washington. Political ferment was general, as today, but it concerned the constitution and not the executive. There were no conventions, platforms, issues or campaign fireworks.

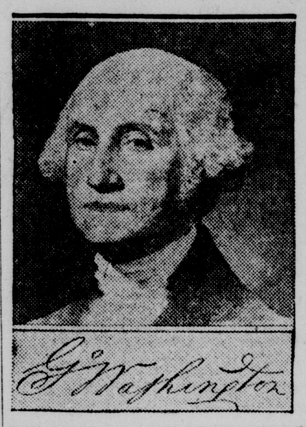

On Jan. 7, when the electors were chosen, two states had not yet ratified the constitution. New York state, on the previous July 26, had voted by a margin of only two in the senate to swing into line, but bickering at Albany prevented the naming of electors so the other 12 states did the job. This was the result:

John Jay, New York, 9.
Robert H. Harrison, Maryland, 6.
John Rutledge, South Carolina, 6.
John Hancock, Massachusetts, 4.
George Clinton, New York, 3.
Samuel Huntington, Connecticut, 2.
John Milton, Georgia, 2.
James Armstrong, Georgia, 1.
Benjamin Lincoln, Massachusetts, 1.
Edward Telfair, Georgia, 1.

Until 1804, when the 12th amendment was ratified, the second choice of the electors was made vice president.

(This is the first of a series of 35 digests of presidential campaigns. The second will be: "1792—All Again for George Washington.")

Mail Planes From Atlantic Liners To Cut Time 32 Hours

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Mail and fast express will soon be transported between France, England and Germany and the Pacific Coast of the United States within a week, the American Air Transport Association predicts.

Steamers can cross the Atlantic in six days and planes will bring last minute mailings to ships 500 miles at sea. By using planes again when ships are 500 miles from New York, approximately 40 hours of the regular Trans-Atlantic schedule can be saved. By using mail planes at both ends of the voyage the European mail and express would require only four and one-half days between the Continent and New York, where the regular mail planes would pick it up and carry it between New York and the Pacific Coast in 32 hours.

France and the United States are almost a day nearer since an amphibian plane carrying mail was catapulted from the Ile de France 450 miles off New York and landed 18 hours ahead of the steamer. The device can project an eight-ton weight off the ship at a speed of 65 miles an hour.

Council Receives Several Complaints Of Water Damage

One Is Sent From New Castle Box Company; Other From Individuals

New Castle Box Company, through Attorney James P. Lockhart today in a communication to council threatened to bring suit against the city unless alleged water nuisance existing on their property is corrected. Lockhart also represented John H. Winter, East Washington street, concerning an alleged water nuisance and a similar complaint was made by Attorney R. L. Wallace, who represented James Mathews, Euclid avenue.

According to Lockhart, the Box Company claims that the city built a storm sewer to drain Liberty street and the water flows in an open ditch across the box company property.

He said that damage totalling $3,102.50, has been caused to lumber.

Council stated that the water flows naturally through the company's property and Solicitor White advised that no action be taken.

Lockhart said in another communication that the city had not yet replied to a complaint relating to an alleged water nuisance which exists following every storm at the Winter property, East Washington street.

The sanitary sewer water flows into the cellar. Councilman Burns said it is his belief the proper city officials have never really made a thorough examination as to the cause and council ordered that the flow of water, in normal and also wet weather be taken.

James Mathews, Euclid avenue, through Attorney Wallace stated that water from the sanitary sewer to the extent of three feet depth had backed into his cellar. Council said this could be eliminated by the placing of a Ball trap in the cellar. Mathews said his damaged aggregated $296.

A fashion note says that a small, thin veil will be worn as low as the nose this summer. This will be of no avail—the shiny nose will have to be powdered.

Monaghan Promises Many Sensations In Philadelphia Probe

District Attorney Says Philadelphia Has Many Things To Hear Yet

Police Officers Uneasy As Greatest Investigation In Years Goes Forward

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Asserting the acceptance of Christmas presents by police officials from Max "Boo Boo" Hoff, alleged "King of the Bootleggers," was only the "external feature," Prosecuting Attorney John Monaghan promised further revelations today in his efforts to link the police force with the bootleg ring operating here.

A number of high police officials were quizzed yesterday and more were scheduled to be examined by the grand jury today. Every member of the liquor raiding squad of former director of Public Safety General Smedley D. Butler has been summoned for questioning.

"I think we are about to show some things about the alliance of the police with bootleggers which will be humiliating to the city," Monaghan declared. "Philadelphia has much to hear yet about this alliance."

Expect Sensations

Much sensation is looked for if members of General Butler's squad of liquor raiders testify. During its existence the squad was frequently under fire and allegations were made that its members were amassing fortunes. For nearly four years it handled virtually the entire liquor situation. Mayor Harry A. Mackey bitterly assailed the unit in his compaign for mayor declaring one of his first acts would be to abolish the squad. He did a few days after assuming office.

Captain of detectives Charles Beckman who was promoted to this post by General Butler has already been suspended and will face a trial board on September 28 on charges of being "unfit to hold office."

The mayor meanwhile has announced that as a result of evidence uncovered by the jury to date a number of policemen will be ordered to trial and the undesirables weeded out.

Opening Of Schools Begins New Caution

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.— With the reopening of school, the American motorists were advised by the American Automobile Association to drive carefully to avoid accidents to children.

"School days are here again," said the Association, "bringing millions of children upon the streets and highways. There are children between the ages of four, five and six who are leaving the protection of their homes to venture forth into an entirely new world.

"The effective work of the school patrols has done much to help protect the tiny tots, although the problem still remains as a challenge to the nation."

Murderer Waited Years With Rifle; Freed By Tribe

(International News Service)

TIFLIS, Georgia, Sept. 14.—A murderer, who for three years lay in one spot, rifle in hand, waiting for the opportunity to kill, has been acquitted by a native judge on grounds of "having paid a sufficient penalty."

The strange story of the case was brought to Tiflis by Maurice Hindus, American writer and lecturer, from the mountain fastnesses of Swanetzia where mountaineers still live in virtual seclusion from the outside world. Stone houses dating back to the Ninth century have watch towers from which invaders are spotted. The ancient law of blood revenge is still in force.

According to this code Jan Ordkidzie sought to avenge an insult to his 16-year-old daughter by another member of the mountain tribe. Jan hid himself in the tower for the moment, his foe should venture within range. Jan's daughter brought him food and drink. Recently after a wait of three years, he spied his man and shot him through the head at a distance of 200 yards. Then he gave himself up to the oldest member of the tribe who decided matters of honor, and was set free.

Motion Pictures To Replace Books For Teaching Foreigners

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—Motion pictures instead of uninteresting books and lectures is the key to the Americanization of aliens.

So declares Edward Mayer, executive secretary of the visual education department of the University extention into Russian for a San Francisco Russian magazine.

"The educational motion picture has a distinct function in acquainting the new comer to our shores with our customs, manner, mode of living, health conditions and industry," Prof. Mayer wrote.

By appealing to the national pride of newcomers by showing motion pictures of their native lands the reticence of the foreigner is overcome to a large degree, Prof. Mayer pointed out. This, he said, has a tendency to create a better feeling of understanding between foreign groups.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

There is a thrill that comes from crashing out a home run with three on base, and another thrill that comes with a hole-in-one. Still another thrill is that when the young lady says yes, but going farther, there is a thrill that comes when a big muscallonge grabs the hook and starts a battle that results in his being landed in the boat.

Dr. Raymond C. Lutz got the muskie thrill on Tuesday night, and after a battle that lasted for half an hour landed a muscallonge 34 inches long and weighing 8 1-4 pounds.

With a friend, Doc had gone to Stoneboro to fish for bass in Sandy Lake. He had made several casts with no success and was beginning to think that the bass were all on their vacation.

Suddenly the line was jerked nearly out of his hands. "If it's a bass," thought the doctor, "he must be all ginned up, for no ordinary bass would put up such an argument."

The fight was on and for the next 30 minutes Doc had as much fun as he would with a three-pronged tooth that was exostosed. Finally he pulled the struggling muskie in to the side of the boat and his companion, that is, Doc's companion, not the muskies, plunked the big fish in the back of the ear with an oar.

The head will be mounted, and opening its jaws one can easily imagine the fish swallowing an ordinary fish with little trouble. The teeth in the jaw have been declared incisors.

Met a Welsh aristocrat the other evening. There are other Welsh aristocrats besides the Prince of Wales, you understand, and this aristocrat is of the canine variety.

Brin Hughes came back from a trip to "the land of his fathers" the other day and brought with him a wire-haired Welsh fox terrier. A rather snooty individual, too, with a snoot that is long and square and has whiskers hanging down like a bunch of weeping willow. Legs as straight as a plummet's string and hair that feels like steel wool.

The dog is a blue-blood and its grandmother, or grandfather, or one of its forebears, brought $65,000 at a sale in the London dog show. The mother of the dog has 13 firsts in the London show to its credit.

Old Game Preserve Is Discontinued

Preserve In Central Pennsylvania Had 100 Deer Within Boundaries

(International News Service)

DANVILLE, Pa., Sept. 14.—The game preserve of the late Alexander Billmyer, once congressman from this district, has been discontinued by Judge Harry Billmyer of this city after it was maintained for 35 years.

The preserve was established by Alexander Billmyer at Washingtonville after he had killed a deer in his youth. For many years it was the largest preserve in this section of the state and at one time had as many as 100 deer within its boundaries.

Following Billmyer's death the preserve passed on to Judge Billmyer and in recent years but very few deer have been kept on the reservation. The game has been limited to a few elk, wild turkeys and squirrels for some time.

Judge Billmyer said the expense of the preserve proved too much, forcing him to dispose of the elk to W. H. Bickle of Parkersburg.

Receipts From High School Games During Year $27,138

In a recapitulation made to the New Castle School Board on Thursday evening, Secretary Hugh Marquis presented an audit of the receipts and expenditures of the Athletic Council for the past year, showing a balance in the treasury of $1,661.07.

Receipts from athletics in the year totaled $27,138.69, of which $23,095.16 came from football. $4,018.84 from basketball and $24.69 came from track activities.

The Washington High School football game on Thanksgiving Day brought in $4,407.84, the Erie East game $2,054.46 and the rest of the games bringing in between $600 and $2,000. In addition, nearly $4,000 came in from students tickets, refreshments concession, etc.

Expenditures were divided as follows: general expenses $3,522.80; football, $13,188.14; Basketball $2,797.12; Girls' athletics, $354.07; Track $964.55; Plant account, which means a payment upon the stadium amounted to $5,500. This makes approximately $20,000 that has been paid upon the stadium with about $25,000 yet due. A contribution to the band amounted to $100.

Executives Of City Convention To Meet

A meeting of the executive committee of the Third Class Cities convention will take place this afternoon at the office of Mayor W. H. Gillespie in the city building at 4 o'clock, according to the announcement from the offices of the Chamber of Commerce this morning.

It is important that all members attend this meeting this afternoon as the convention is near at hand and the final working out of all details for the two-day program must be completed.

Fuel Oil Causes Fire This Morning

No Damage Is Done At Home Of A. S. Thayer On East Lincoln Avenue

The ignition of fuel oil in the ash pit in his basement caused a small fire this morning at the home of A. S. Thayer of 332 East Lincoln avenue. Number 2 fire company answered the alarm at 7:40.

Mr. Thayer was lighting an oil burning furnace, when the oil in the ash pit caught on fire, which, in turn, ignited some papers and excelsior at the rear of the heater. The blaze was extinguished in a short time, the company being back in service at eight o'clock. No damage was done to the property.

Truck Ran Away, Little Girl Hit, $30,000 Is Asked

TRUCK IS LEFT STANDING ON HILL

Emma Morabito by her parents, Casino and Carmel Morabito, have filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against M. Solomon, trading as the Solomon Dry Cleaning company of Ellwood City to recover $30,000 damages as a result of injuries sustained by Emma, who is 6½ years old, when struck by a runaway truck of the defendant company.

In a statement of claim it is alleged that a delivery truck, driven by an agent of the defendant company, had stopped on a hill on the left side of Ninth street, Ellwood City, while a dress was being delivered to Mrs. John Tyler. While the driver was in the house the truck started to run down the street, striking the little girl, and later crashing into an automobile.

The little girl suffered a concussion of the brain, injuries to her knees and other parts of her body, as well as a scalp wound which left a bare spot on which the hair refuses to grow.

It is claimed that the parking of a car on the hill on the left side of the street was against the law, and further that it was parked on the hill without the wheel being turned into the curb. Negligence on the part of the defendant company is alleged. Of the amount asked $25,000 is demanded for injuries to Emma and $5000 for her parents.

Mrs. Furniss Sings For Kiwanians

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Adele Eggers Furniss, a local singer, very kindly offered her services to the Kiwanians last evening, due to the fact that Sue Harvard, Metropolitan singer, could not be present. Mrs. Furniss sang two groups of songs, accompanied by Mrs. Roland Haines on the piano, which were well received by the audience.

After the dinner a short meeting was called and President Magee introduced Dr. McQuaig of Pittsburgh as the speaker of the evening. Dr. McQuaig gave a very interesting talk on higher eugenics. He intends to give three more lectures during the next week at the different churches dealing on the same subject.

Plans were also made for the delegates to go to the Kiwanis convention at Uniontown next week.

FELT MISERABLE ALL OVER BEFORE TAKING KONJOLA

Miseries Of Kidney Trouble And Sluggish Liver Ended By New Medicine.

MR. FRANK G. RUNKLE
Seavy Photo

Many people of this city who have suffered for years and were never able to find relief, are declaring that this new Konjola medicine restored them to health. In most cases, these people have stated that Konjola so completely ended their ailments that none of their old troubles returned and they have been able to quit taking medicine entirely. This accounts for the great stream of public testimonials which are coming from men and women of this vicinity, and received at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, this city, where the Konjola Man is personally introducing and explaining this advanced remedy to crowds of people daily. One of the latest reports came from Mr. Frank G. Runkle, R. F. D. No. 1, Ellwood road, New Castle:

"Since taking Konjola I am free of every health trouble I ever had", said Mr. Runkle, "I am sure that there is not a better medicine in the drug store today to build up a completely rundown system."

"I have never been able to find out what made my condition so rundown. It seemed to me that the least exertion would completely tire me out. My liver was in a very sluggish condition and in spite of all kinds of laxatives that I would take, my system kept on being congested with the poisons of my body. My eyes had a yellowish color in them and the headaches used to bother me all the time. My kidneys were in a weakened condition also, and at night when I would go to bed I had to rise three or four times. This made it awful hard for me to get any rest at all and I would get up the next morning feeling worse than when I went to bed. Finally my health got so bad that I could not go to work and when I say that in two years time, I only worked 11 weeks, I am not exaggerating a bit. I had taken lots of medicines and they did not do me any good, and I was getting awfully discouraged.

"I noticed in the paper one night where a case similar to mine had been relieved by Konjola and I decided to get some. I took it for only four days and I began to notice a great change in my health. I kept right on taking this medicine until I had completed a full treatment. Now my liver never bothers me at all and my bowels move with greater ease and freedom than ever before. My eyes are bright and clear now and those awful headaches that I formerly suffered are gone. My kidneys are well and strong now and when I go to bed at night, I can sleep right on thru until the next morning. When I get out of bed, I feel strong and healthy and all during the day I can work right thru without getting the least bit tired. My food digests right and I have a better appetite than before. I shall always strongly recommend Konjola, so that others may gain the same benefits that I did.

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Konjola contains juices from 22 plants—more than other medicines. It is a new compound that works with the sufferer's food, restoring more healthful action to the important organs (stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels) and producing new energy and glorious health in a natural way, thru the entire inner-system.

Urges Restoration Of Valley Forge

Speaker Decries Political Control Of Shrine Of The Nation

(International News Service)

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 14— Restoration of Valley Forge to its original contour and elimination of political control of the shrine of the nation was urged by Dr. W. Herbert Burk, rector of the Valley Forge Memoral Chapel, in an address before the Kiwanis Club here recently.

Dr. Burk declared that men and women who are historical authorities and motivated by the highest order of patriotism should be placed in charge of Valley Forge affairs.

The rector decided the political control of the shrine, declaring that the Valley Forge Park Commission recently purchased "several thousands of additional acreage for the Valley Forge park without knowledge of what they are going to do with it."

New Facilities Aid New Castle To Get Conference

The Castleton, Cathedral And New Municipal Golf Course Attract Regional Board

JAMES W. COLE RETURNS TO CITY

Secretary James W. Cole of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce returned to the city last night following his attendance at the two day conference of the Allegheny Regional Advisory Board at Cumberland, Md., and the clinching for New Castle of the June conference of the board next spring.

New Castle, states Mr. Cole, was selected because of its central location and its exceptional facilities for the handling of the large group of men who will attend. The Cathedral, The Castleton and the municipal golf course had much to do with the selection of this city for the spring conference, stated Mr. Cole.

At the Cumberland meeting, the attendance at the conference was not as large as was expected on account of its out of the way location. New Castle lies near the center of the districts included in the conference and is easily accessible by motor or train for the visitors from other districts.

Mr. Cole stated that the municipal golf course of New Castle was one of the factors in getting the conference. The business meeting of the conference last each day until 2 o'clock in the afternoon and after that the visitors drive on sight seeing trips and play golf.

New Castle will have the municipal golf course and with the Field Club course, there will be no doubt of not having golfing accomodations for the visitors.

In explaining about the accomodations, Mr. Cole told of the new Cathedral and the Castleton. The conference does not choose meeting places unless they are quite sure that hotel accomodations will be of the best. After investigating New Castle, they voted and the present plans now are to come to New Castle for the June meeting.

The Christmas conference of the board will be held in Pittsburgh, as is the custom each year an account of inclement weather and the March meeting will take place in Washington, Pa. This is a slight leaving of prescedent, as the March meetings are also usually held in Pittsburgh.

New Castle will get the June conference which will mean that over 500 transportation and industrial executives will be in the city for two days, next June.

The June meeting of the Regional board is usually the largest as there is more business to be discussed and the weather is generally very good at that time of the year.

No date has been set for the June meeting here. The exact days will be announced at the March meeting which will take place in Washington, Pa., some time in March.

The Allegheny Regional Advisory Board conference was invited by the New Castle Chamber of Commerce to come to New Castle for this convention. The selection of this city by the conference is an indication of favor in the eyes of the business men of other cities of the state.

Conditions At School Cafeteria Are Criticized

School Board Committee To Investigate Conditions At Senior High Cafeteria

Criticism of the Senior High School cafeteria and the condition of the lower floors of the same school was voiced Thursday evening by members of the school board. The upshot of the meeting as that a committee representing the board will inspect the premises with a view to putting them on a different basis.

Attorney Roy W. Hazen brought the matter up by saying that it had been called to his attention that the cafeteria was unsanitary and that the students were not using is as they should. Dr. Green supported Mr. Hazen in his statement and said that conditions about the cafeteria and the lower floors were "filthy."

Superintendent of Buildings and Ground S. G. Ligo said that in his opinion there was not enough cooperation in the Senior High-School and after further discussion the matter was referred to a committee.

George Washington Library Will Soon Be Placed In Use

Although there still remains considerable preliminary work to be done, it is thought that the department will be under normal operation by the close of this month. The school has been appropriated $1,000 worth of books for this term.

According to Browne K. Thacker, principal of the institution, the list of required reading will be distributed to the pupils this coming Monday. It is then, probably, that the library will be taxed with the greatest number of students yet to visit it. They will do their reading there. The room will seat 150 students.

Landis Investigates Betting Activity Of Hornsby And McGraw

Telephone Bill For $559.07 Causes Big Stir In Organized Baseball

Name Of Prominent Chicago Jockey Connected With Strange Case; Probe Promised

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—A double headed investigation was stated today as a result of a telephone bill sent to Jockey C. E. Allen, veteran rider at the Chicago race tracks, for $559.07, by the Illinois Telephone company for local and Long distance calls during June and July from a fashionable apartment hotel.

The telephone company sent the bill to Jockey Allen stating that some of the long distance calls were to John McGraw of the New York Giants and Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston National League club.

Prohibit Betting

The baseball commissioner wants to know if McGraw and Hornsby have been betting on the races, because the heads of both National and American Leagues in a conference last winter wrote a section into baseball law prohibiting players and managers from betting on the races.

If McGraw and Hornsby have been violating the rule, it was intimated there may be serious charges brought against them, with a possibility of their being barred from league participation, by the commission.

The apartment where the calls were placed, records at the hotel show, was accupied during June and July by a young couple who registered as "C. Allen and wife." Attaches of the hotel looked at pictures of Jockey Allen and stated positively that he was not the occupant of the apartment.

"I am not married, never lived at that hotel and have not sent out no information about the races at any time," said Allen.

Accusations Denied

Boston, Sept. 14.—"It sounds like the old bunk to me," said Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, when told that his name was mentioned in connection with a race-tipping probe in Chicago.

Hornsby said he never knew or heard of a Jockey C. E. Allen, mentioned in reports from Chicago. Hornsby said he never had any dealings with Jockey Allen or any other jockey.

Simba Sponsored By Local Clubs

Many Local People Go On List For Nationally Known Jungle Film

Sponsored by the Rotary, the Lions and the Kiwanis clubs, as well as a score of prominent local citizens, "Simba," the film of life in the African jungles, which will be shown at the Scottish Rite Cathedral auditorium Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, September 17, 18 and 19, is already a guaranteed success, according to Herbert Peairs, manager of the cathedral.

Local citizens who are sponsoring the production are Mayor William H. Gillespie, Mrs. W. A. Pond, Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger, Mrs. J. G. Nothdurft, the Rev. C. J. Williamson, Dr. Mildred Rogers, Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson, Ira M. Ramsey, James W. Cole, and the Rev. Fr. F. S. Clifford.

Simba is a film of jungle life, photographed by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson. Part of the proceeds of the showing in New Castle, as elsewhere, will go to the American Museum of Natural History, which, in turn, will use the money to erect an African hall, to be dedicated to the memory of Carl Akley, who lost his life on the expedition.

Clubman Held As Seller Of Liquor

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Alfred E. Norris, broker, clubman and former Philadelphian, now a resident of New York, and Joel D. Kerper, alleged "society bootlegger," will be tried in the federal courts here September 23.

This was revealed today by Assistant U. S. District Attorney Charles Denby, who declared he is pushing the case as much as possible. He admitted, however, the trial date might be delayed if Norris fights extradition to this city.

Norris, wealthy society man, and Kerper were indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday. Norris on charges of conspiring with Kerper to violate the prohibition laws and Kerper with illegal sale, transportation, possession and shipment of liquors.

Tony De Mayo, this city, and John Brill, Camden, associates of Kerper, will be tried at the same time.

August 18, 1927. Vasbinder, also a killer, is under sentence to the electric chair in Pennsylvania, according to reports received here.

Rewards totaling $10,000 have been offered for their capture since their daring jail break of more than a year ago, but the two have continued to elude authorities, while staging holdup after holdup in cities in various parts of the country.

Bloody Battle.

The capture of Jaworski yesterday was marked by the bloodiest and most prolonged gun battle the city has known in years. A Pittsburgh man was seated at the counter of a little east side restaurant when the two notorious gunmen entered. Recognizing them from newspaper pictures, the Pittsburgher rose, told the waitress he would return later, left and telephoned police.

Three minutes later, a patrol car drew up with five policemen. Vasbinder dashed out the back door, but Jaworski drew his gun, stepped to the door and began shooting. Patrolman Anthony Wieczorek, the first to alight from the automobile, fell dead with four of the killer's bullets in his body.

By the time Effinger had fallen, the three remaining patrolmen were returning Jaworski's fire. Majstrek, a bystander, was hit by a bullet. Though still alive this morning, he was reported sinking rapidly.

With their pistols barking, the three policemen advanced on the entrance to the restaurant. Jaworski turned and ran through the rear door. Two bullets found him, but did not hamper his flight.

Jaworski led the police a merry chase for several minutes after his escape from the restaurant, and was finally cornered in a small room in a two-story frame dwelling a short distance from the scene of the fatal shooting.

A small boy gave the officers the tip that Jaworski had entered the home, and it is believed that the killer hid himself under a bed in the kitchen of the home. Jaworski defied the officers to "come and get me" and tear gas bombs were hurled into the room.

Patrolman Koudela was stationed at the entrance of the home with a sawed-off shotgun and when Jaworski opened the door and came out holding his gun with one hand and wiping his eyes with the other, Koudela opened fire, one slug lodging in the murderers head and two more in his body. Jaworski staggered back into the room, and about 25 or 30 officers with drawn guns rushed in and dragged him to the front porch. Jaworski was believed mortally wounded and was rushed to the St. Alexis hospital.

A heavy police guard is being maintained over the noted criminal.

Return to Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—Hopeful that Paul Jaworski, confessed killer, bandit leader and one of the most feared gunmen in soft coal regions crime annals, will be returned to Pennsylvania, authorities here today made plans to do away with any legal delays which may stand between him and the electric chair at Rockview.

Return of Jaworski, who added his fourth victim in five years to his record by killing a policeman in Cleveland yesterday, is being demanded by George Murrin, chief of Allegheny county detectives, who with two McKeesport detectives hurried to the Ohio city last night to identify the killer.

Jaworski climaxed his criminal career in this region on August 18, 1927, when with Jack Vasbinder, another convicted murderer, he shot his way out of Allegheny county jail here. His most spectacular crime was the bombing of a Pittsburgh Terminal Coal company armored pay car, from which he and his gang stole $104,000.

Jaworski and his confederates, known as the "Flathead gang", struck several times at coal region payroll shipments, killing two guards and netting hundreds of thousands of dollars in loot.

Child Killed, Motorist Fails To Render Aid

East Stroudsburg Girl Is Killed By Hit-Run Driver In Front Of Home

(International News Service)

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 14.—State Highway patrolmen and local police are searching today for a hit-and-run motorist whose car struck and killed little Betty Irene Colbert, 3-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Colbert, in front of their East Stroudsburg home last night.

The car, said to be a small green sedan, bore a New Jersey license. The little girl had just stepped from the curb with her sister, Ruth, 16, when she was struck by the speeding car. The auto hesitated, witnesses said, then speeded away towards Stroudsburg.

Dr. A. J. Singer, mayor of East Stroudsburg, who was called, said death was instantaneous. The child's back and neck were broken, the skull fractured and an arm broken. An inquest will be held this afternoon by acting Coroner Robert R. Coolbrush.

The parents of the child were away from home at the time of the tragedy. The family has lived in this vicinity only a short time, Colbert being foreman of Clark Bros. Construction company, Cherry Tree, Indiana county. He is supervising the building of a State road between Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap.

The little girl's body will be taken to Frankstown, Blair county, for burial.

Schmidt Displays Gigantic Tomato

Offers Prize To Any Gardener Who Can Beat His Specimen

Tomato growers will have something else to shoot at when they see the tomato grown by L. Schmidt of the Castle on the Hill mission and which is now on display at the office of The News.

While yet green, the tomato weighs well over two pounds, and it is the largest in circumference that has been brought into The News office this summer. Mr. Schmidt declares that at the Castle on the Hill he must pull his tomatoes green so that he can lift them. And he offers a prize of one dollar to any man who can grow a tomato equal to his.

Order City To Buy Calculating Machine

Council today acted favorably on the recommendation of City Engineer that the city buy a calculating machine for a net price of $343. Councilman Burns voted against the purchase as he said another kind could be bought at $275. Council was influenced by the fact that the engineering office attaches are accustomed to the type purchased.

Corinthian Letters Analyzed

Brass Tacks On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

About three years after Paul left Corinth he wrote his friends there a series of at least three letters, the first of which, referred to in I Cor. 5:9, has been lost. In answer to this lost letter Paul's advice on a number of questions. To answer these as well as to correct certain faults of which Paul had heard he wrote the letter we call "First Corinthians."

The message of this letter may be summarized in seven words: "Unity, Purity, Liberty, Sanctity, Diversity, Victory and Charity."

In chapt. 1 to 4 Paul deals with the UNITY which was so sadly lacking among the contentious fractions of the church with its parties claiming allegiance to Paul, Apollos, Peter and Christ. They were to find their unity in Christ.

In chaps. 5 to 7 he deals with PURITY which was shamefully lacking at Corinth, due to a well known member of the church living in open shame with his own father's wife. He deals here also with their lawsuits before heathen judges, and closes with an explanation of the purity to be found in Christian marriage.

Chaps. 8 to 10 deal with the subject of Christian LIBERTY, its use and abuse, as the solution of the then vexing problem of eating or refraining from eating of meat offered to idols. In Paul's treatment of this problem we have the solution of the Christian's attitude towards all so-called "questionable amusements" of the present day.

Chap. 11 deals with the SANCTITY of the Lord's Supper and rebukes the Corinthians for their abuse of it in overlooking the heavenly element of the Holy Communion.

Chaps. 12 to 14 deal with DIVERSITY of gifts among Christians, and calls attention to the unity of their sources and the charity to be exercised in their use, and that all is to the end of edification.

Chap. 15 deals with VICTORY, Christ's own victory over death in his resurrection, and the Christian's victory through Christ, of which he sings in a great doxology, "Thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

The closing chapter sounds the note of CHARITY as Paul exhorts them to bring gifts for the poor, and closes with loving salutations to his friends.

Second Corinthians Anaylzed

Second Corinthians may well be called "A Hand-book for Christian Workers." In chaps. 1 to 7 Paul sets forth certain Guiding Principals for Christian workers, the respective chapters of this section showing the Christian worker's Comfort, Criticism, Completeness, Cleansing, Constraint, Conduct and again Comfort.

The second section of the letter Christian work, setting forth in chapter 8 the Cross and giving and in chapter 9 the contagion of giving.

The final section, chaps. 10 to 13, deal with governing graces for Christian workers, the first of which, in chap. 10, is that of grace of the captivating Christ; next comes the grace of self-respect in chaps. 11 and 12 and, finally, in chap. 13 the grace of severity.

The letter which is the most severe of all Paul's letters except that to the Galatians, closes with the tenderest of his benedictions, "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost be with you all."

(For fuller analysis of all Bible books the reader is referred to "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book," by Dr. Alvin E. Bell, Toledo, Ohio.)

(The International Uniform Lesson for Sept. 16, is I Corinthians chaps. 1 to 4, the subject being "Paul Writes to His Friends in Corinth," and the Golden Text, Psalm 133:1 "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethern to dwell together in unity!")

The headline writers are always discovering that "burglars have invaded home". That's the great drawback to the profession. You can't very well be a burglar unless you do.

Old Time Country School House Actually In Use In City's Residential Area

One-Room County School Being Used Out On Highland Avenue

UNIQUE SITUATION IN SCHOOL LINES

Small Section Of Neshannock Township Bordering On Highland Gives Explanation

A little old "country school house" is sitting in the city of New Castle. Impossible, you say. Yes, impossible, but theoretically, its there. The Fairview school, which sits on Highland avenue near the intersection of Fairmont avenue, apparently is in New Castle. It is in the district of wonderful and expensive homes, yet the little lads comes to school there from the farms just as they did 30 or more years ago.

Unique Situation

The secret to the whole thing is that Neshannock township borders Highland avenue in an "L" fashion, he horizontal line running east at Fairmont avenue. It makes a small corner of the township apparently in the city, but as far as taxation is concerned, it is not.

It is a unique sight, however, to see the little school sitting peacefully there from all appearances situated in the residential district of the city of New Castle.

The little old school was built years ago. If you ask any one when, they will say it has been there as long as they can remember.

It is of the same style as all of the little old schools. The carved desks, the huge stove that roasts you and freezes your back at the same time, the pictures on the walls of the presidents, and the row of dinner pails at the back of the room, all help to bring back a rush of memories to the casual observer who would chance to enter the building.

Same System

The system is the same. Mrs. Daisy Slater, a former teacher in the New Castle schools, is taking charge this year. She has 45 little black and tow headed urchins to look after, ranging from the age of 6 up to about 12 or 13. Practically all are little tots and they require a lot of care seeing that they get their rubbers on in the winter and that their coats are tucked about their necks.

Of the total number in the school, 21 are girls and 24 are boys. Out of this number, there are 9 pupils in the first grade, 11 in the second, 7 in the third, in the fourth 4, none in the fifth, sixth 2, seventh 5 and 3 pupils in the eight grade. There was one student in the fifth grade, but as that would make a number of extra classes, the lad was transferred to another school.

Only 40 Classes For Teacher.

Now for the fun. Mrs. Slater has 40 classes which she must work into the day's work somehow. She has four classes in geography; seven in grammer; seven in artihmetic; three in history; seven in spelling and four in health. Then, too, she must teach the classes of music in the spare time!

The reason for the little school is that there is not sufficient rooms in the consolidated school for Neshannock township. It was necessary to leave the little old school go its way until funds can be raised for the enlargement of the consolidated school.

The building is about 40 by 50 and is floored with the old time hard boards, now blackened. There is a mantle in the front of the room also and a bell which really rings as it used to 30 years or more ago.

The 30 year old scene is in the residential district of New Castle, yet it isn't. Today, with the regime of the modern school, the Fairmont school is a unique sight to behold and indeed a point to sentimentalize over. Many of the business men of this city attended such a school as that forty or fifty years ago and the scenes at the Fairview school will bring back fond memories when they too walked to the little school through the blustering winter winds and the fall frost.

It is probable that before much longer that the little school will be gone from the city and the pupils trained in the new and modern school system. Until then, New Castle will have the distinction of having a country school in her residential section which, we imagine, few cities can say.

Bootlegger For Society Is Held Under Indictment

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—The federal grand jury Thursday indicted Joel D. Kerper, alleged "society bootlegger", charging him with illegal possession, transportation and shipment of liquor.

Alfred E. Norris, New York broker, and Tony De Mayo and John Brill, employes of Kerper, were named as defendants and a long list of prominent Philadelphians was made public. The list of names was found among Kerper's records and 12 of the men appeared before the jury.

The indictments charged that Kerper shipped choice liquors to Bar Harbor society leaders, New Lork social leaders and others equally prominent in this vicinity.

Pigeon Wrecks Home In Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14. — Returning home from his vacation, Robert Ransford opened his front door and pushed on the light. Such a scene of destruction met his eyes that he beat a hasty retreat and went to the nearest drug store to call the police.

Two officers answered the call for assistance post-haste. They cautiously opened the front door and found draperies awry, curtains torn to shreds pictures and vases scattered over the floor and the whole place looking like destruction.

The officers advanced with drawn guns and cautious steps to search the lower part of the house for the vandals which they were certain must be present. They found nothing but confused wreckage.

Upstairs they found lamps overturned, bureaus scarves pulled off and in the bath-room, bottles broken on the tiled floor.

When it was assured that no valuables were missing, it was concluded that the bird had sought shelter in the fireplace chimney, and had been unable to find its way out again.

Dr. C. C. Green Explains Half Hour Lunch Plan At Junior High Schools

Because of some complaints relative to the half hour lunch period in the new George Washington Junior High School, Superintendent C. C. Green made a formal statement to the school board Thursday evening, outlining his reasons for the period.

In addition to the formal statement which follows below Dr. Green explained that the half hour lunch period was the accepted time in all standard junior high schools, that this plan had been working in the Franklin School, and that if an hour or an hour and a half were allowed it would still be insufficient for some pupils to get to their homes and return. The others he explained, those who lived nearby would then have time that would allow them to play in the streets and run the gauntlet of automobile traffic.

The statement, which was accepted by the board, follows:

"When a modern junior high school is organized the school undertakes to plan and assume responsibility for the pupils' activities for a full day of seven hours. These activities include study, recitation, recreation and what is commonly known as extra-curricular activities. The extra-curricular activities include athletics, club work, band, orchestra, library, etc. Recreational and extra curricular features, shop work, home economics, and lunch period are so interwoven with the study and recitation of the fundamental subjects that a pupil of normal physical and mental health need not become abnormally tired at the end of the school day.

To accomplish this daily program it is necessary for the school to be in operation for seven full hours. This does not mean, of course, that the pupils are engaged in what is commonly known as study and recitation for seven hours. The other activities contribute their part to the pupil's educational development but because of their variety they are restful as well as educative.

If a junior high school were closed for an hour or an hour and a half at noon to enable pupils to go home it would be necessary to extend the school day that much longer and close at at about 5:00 in the afternoon instead of 3:45. Furthermore, all children could not go home at noon without great inconvenience to themselves. Those who live any considerable distance from the school, having twice as far to travel each day as they have under the present arrangement, would be spending an unreasonable part of every day upon the streets.

No child is required to purchase anything in the school cafeteria. He may bring his lunch with him from home if he so desires. If he wishes to purchase a cool glass of milk, cocoa, salad or some other article of food suitable for a school child at the noon hour, these things are served to him at cost. As a matter of fact, the few cents which a child would spend for his lunch would not involve a greater cost to the parent than if he eats his lunch at home.

In the last analysis, questions of this kind are a part of the consideration of the general question of the value of the modern junior high school. It is our judgment that the junior high school is an unusually fine institution. The very fact that the school authorities do attempt to assume responsibility for the child for a full school day is a type of service of great value to the community. When we consider the gymnasium, the swimming pool, vocal and instrumental music, library, medical inspection, dental clinics, nurses, home economics, well trained instructors, and all the other features of a junior high school it must be admitted that the child of the poorest citizen of the community now enjoys opportunities which were hardly available for the rich a few years ago.

The daily program of the junior high schools of this city is not arbitrary or peculiar to New Castle. Our program is similar to that which obtains in all cities of this size or larger where standard junior high schools are operated. In its objectives, organization, and method of operation this is—relatively speaking—a new type of school. It represents one of the most significant advance steps in public education during the last half century. Furthermore, it has been tested and proved; and it has been accepted by progressive cities in all parts of the country. In educational circles we do not know of any serious opposition to the junior high school idea."

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHY PROSPERITY?

Edwin G. Nicholas, writing in the Chicago Daily News, says that relatively greater prosperity in the United States as compared with the older countries is attributed to greater use of mechanical power, big production, high wages and great natural resources interchanged among the 48 states without tariff barriers. He also calls attention to another cause of which we hear less. The total number of labor disputes in the United States in 1927 was the smallest for a dozen years. In 1916 there were between three and four thousand labor disputes. Last year there were only 734. The higher wages and new harmony between labor employers and employes have had a tremendous amount to do with national prosperity.

* * *

STICKING TO ONE THING

Mathew Woll, widely known labor leader and president of the Photo-Engravers' union, made these recommendations at a convention of the union in Cincinnati:

Leaders of organized labor will do better by the workingmen of this country if they will stick to their specialty. And their specialty is better conditions for workingmen as to hours, shop conditions and wages. The whole case is weakened when they introduce prohibition or any other nationally disputed policy into their program.

* * *

POWER OF RADIO

The world faces danger in new power. We have only begun to learn something about radio. Now radio is seen by scientists as useful in the treatment of disease. Tuberculosis has been treated by short waves in Germany. But radio is far too powerful an agent to be used except in the most expert hands. New discoveries do untold harm when badly handled. Many lives have been lost, martyrs to science and experiment. Power is the characteristic of the first part of the 20th century. Perhaps the knowledge and ability to use power will be characteristic of the latter part. Let us hope so.

* * *

MOSQUITOES

The people of many parts of this country would be very happy if the assembled chemists who are working for the war department in the invention and manufacture of deadly gas for war use would concentrate for awhile on a gas that would kill mosquitoes by the swarm. Airplanes and gas could hardly be put to better use. More mosquito gas and less war gas!

WELL ENOUGH

They were seated across the table from each other in the restaurant, the wealthy octogenarian and the gold digger.

"Will you marry me if I have my health rejuvenated?" he asked.

ASTRONOMICAL

Bill—So you popped the question by starlight?

Will—Yes, and she accepted in a twinkling.

At the rate matters are going, robbery insurance rates will soon be prohibitive, and then the average citizen won't feel so complacent over the crime news.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of Our War With Spain
The Attack On San Juan Hill, July 1, 1898

WHILE GEN. LAWTON'S DIVISION WAS CLOSING IN UPON EL CANEY, THE OTHER WING OF THE ARMY, COMMANDED BY GEN. WHEELER, HAD BEGUN ITS MARCH TO ATTACK THE STRONG SPANISH DEFENSES ON SAN JUAN (SAN-HWAN) HILL. WITH THIS FORCE MARCHED THE "ROUGH RIDERS", WHO WERE BRIGADED WITH THE 10TH (COLORED) REGULAR CAVALRY.

AS THE COLUMN DESCENDED THE RIDGE FROM EL POSO IT WAS IN PLAIN VIEW OF THE SPANIARDS ON SAN JUAN HILL, WHO HAD THE RANGE OF THE ROAD AND THE FORD IN THE RIVER BEYOND WHICH OUR MEN WOULD HAVE TO FORM FOR THE ASSAULT.

THE ROAD, CROWDED WITH MARCHING MEN, PRESENTED AN EASY TARGET TO THE ENEMY'S RIFLEMEN, WHO KEPT UP A STEADY, ANNOYING FIRE, AND THE AMERICANS SUFFERED MANY CASUALTIES WHILE CROSSING THIS EXPOSED STRETCH.

BUT, UNDAUNTED BY THE PERILS OF THIS MARCH, TO WHICH WAS ADDED THE TERRIFIC HEAT OF THE DAY, THE COLUMN ADVANCED STEADILY, AND BY ONE O'CLOCK THE ENTIRE FORCE HAD PASSED THE FORD.

ROCCO AND FRIEDMAN CLASH TONIGHT

Each Hopes To Score Victory

Eddie Weygant To Battle Zill In Six-Round Semi-Final Bout

THREE OTHER BOUTS AT CENTENNIAL FIELD

By ED FRITZ

Fistic fans who relish pugilistic punch will have a chance tonight at Centennial field to see gloves fly fast when Emmett Rocco and Al Friedman, heavyweights, clash in a Drama of Sock scheduled to last ten rounds. Rocco is the pride of Lawrence county and Friedman hails from Boston. Rocco is a hardy individual with a terrific sock while Friedman is reputed to be a good boxer.

According to the managers of the respective fighters they are in superb condition and ready for a gruelling contest. On account of Rocco holding residence in this vicinity he is favored to win but Friedman's manager sees nothing but victory.

The battle is being staged by the New Castle Baseball club directors and active in the promotion of the show are Billy Fazzone, Carm Sacco and Paul De Cerbo. Al Lippe, Philadelphia, manages Friedman and Joe Cumo mentors for the boy from Ellwood City.

In Good Condition.

Rocco has been in constant and it might be said rigorous training for two weeks. He has had the services of George Perotta as a training partner and according to those who have watched him punch, his right hand is in shape.

Friedman, while a Bostonian and a graduate of Harvard's chemical school, has been training with Battling Levinsky and other fighters in Philadelphia. He has boxed Young Stribling, Jack DeMave, Jack Gagon and other newcomers in the heavyweight division.

The ring at Centennial field has been pitched in front of the grandstand and surrounding the roped circle seats have been erected. According to the ball club officials a big crowd is anticipated and the receipts will be used to help pay off baseball debts incurred.

Weygant To Fight.

Eddie Weygant, local featherweight, will stack up against Jimmy Zill in the semi-final of six rounds. Eddie has not boxed for some time but hopes to come back and expects to "take" Zill. Weygant has been trained by Jimmy Dime, his manager.

There will be three other battles, one of which will be a six-round bout and the other two will go four rounds. In the six-round bout Joe Midway, the blonde battler, will tackle Eddie Hogan, an Irishman from Canton.

Larry Carni of Fombell, Pa., will meet Bud Bollender, who boxed here last winter and in the opening setto Al Brown, Canton, will tackle Heinie Slate, welterweight of the West Side. The first bout will start at 8:15 p. m., eastern standard time.

Penn State Grid Team Will Meet

A meeting of the former members of the Penn State grid team has been called for 2:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, at the Crane and Hartman Pop Shop on Long avenue.

The following are asked to attend the meeting: Mele, Mereiman, J. Rodgers, J. Lewis, L. Lewis, G. Williams, Gibson, Johns Gennock, VanFossan, Taylor, A. Thomas, Glenn Thomas, Kulich, G. Mike, Harris, Rowe, Kulha, Jamieson, Sumner, Porter, and Eardley.

The Penn State gridders are looking forward to a great year on the football field, and hope to give the fans of New Castle some first class games.

Firpo Has Won 14 By Knockout

Hybert Is Apt To Upset Elongated Louisville Boy Monday

DAVIES' TRAINING PARTNER COMING

By ED FRITZ

Small head, large shoulders, little waist, slem legs but rangy arms, that is a fairly good description of Young Firpo, who has scored 14 knockouts of 42 fights and who hopes to put another foe to sleep Monday night when he tackles Floyd Hybert, Ashtabula, O., in a bout scheduled to go 10 rounds at Jolly bowl.

Since Firpo took up the Art of Ruining Fistic Idols he has engaged in 42 battles. Fourteen ended suddenly, or when his left sent his antagonist off balance and his right crashed against an adversary's jaw.

Firpo won all the other bouts, excepting three which were called draws and one which went against him, a decision having been given to Billy McLain at New Albany, Ind., after 10 rounds of fighting.

Good Socker.

Hybert is said to be a terrific puncher and it is possible that Mr. Firpo will have a warm evening here Monday. There are plenty of fans here who want to see Firpo beat, others see him win and as a result they'll trot to see the "going".

Frankie Rio, Cleveland, will battle Frankie Moran, Pittsburgh, as Jack McFarland advised that his jaw is still sore from the Datto fight but will fight anybody as soon as it heals and therefore Moran, reputed to be a good boy, will take on Rio.

Romeo Pacelli, a sweet looking kid from our town, will return to the bowl with Tommy Thompson, a newcomer, as a foe. Larry Keogh manages Tommy and if he can fight as good as Romeo the fans can expect a busy six-round dispute.

Al Iodone, training mate of Willie Davies, will come to fight Roy Minteer, and Elmo the Mighty, a boy who pleases the fans, will tackle his ancient enemy, Maxie Brown. The first two bouts should be filled with lots of action.

Bobby Jones Favored To Win Amateur Title

Competition Keenest In Years As Golfers Battle Tricky Brae Burn Course

George Voigt Figured To Give Jones Fight For 1928 Crown; Semi-Finals Today

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

WEST NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 14.—One Englishman, with the aspect of a school master and the fighting punch of a stevedore; one Harvard sophomore, slightly more tenacious than the average hangnail; one reformed private secrtary whose golf was too good to waste upon the keys of a typewriter, and the inevitable survivor, this man Jones they are always talking about.

These gentlemen were all that was left of an original field of 143 when the semi-final round of the national amateur golf championship opened this morning with two matches scheduled for thirty-six holes each.

Jones Big Favorite

In the first of these Tom Perkins, champion of Great Britain and fast coming into general recognition, as a worthy one, was to face George Voigt, the ex-aide to wealth and social distinction. In the other, this man Jones will play Phillips Finlay, youthful and, therefore, dangerous, sometimes, there is nothing quite so exalted as the confidence of a youth who is tasting the elixir of his first important victory. However, it is doubtful whether even a hard sophomore would consider himself justified in feeling hardly the slightest bit over-confident in going in there with this man Jones.

Besides the common impression today was that Jones at last had found the key to Brae Burns mysteries. There was no alternate impression to be gained as a matter of fact, after his record of three under par for the twenty-three holes needed yesterday to win that gripping struggle by 14 and 13 from John Beck, the unfortunate Englishman.

Jones was so typically Jones that he would have been 9 up on Finlay at the end of twenty-three holes, matching Jones' card with that turned in by Finlay against Johnston. And on the same basis of comparison, he would have been 4 up on Perkins and 7 up on Voigt.

Mistakes Happen

Mistakes will happen, of course, and I certainly don't wish to break my record by making one now, but still I feel impelled to state that every sign points an index finger toward another victory for the automaton, thus giving him four amateur titles of the last five contested. It also would round out a six-year dynasty, during which this man Jones never has known what it is to be without at least one major championship.

1924—National amateur champion.
1925—National amateur champion and tie for open title, but beaten on play-off.
1926—British open champion, national open champion and reached final for amateur title.

No doubt he won't thank me for counting some chickens that still are in the incubator. And, in truth, there is no forecasting the performance of a young opponent who might get the idea that he is a man of destiny or something. Those kind never are easy to beat, as Johnston discovered on the late holes yesterday and as Ouimet discovered in the first round.

Finlay was 3 down to Francis at the end of nine holes, but beat him home. He was "down" to Johnston nearly all the way, being a hole behind finally with only five to play. Yet he won again with a couple of miraculous recoveries from trouble. Anyone who can beat a pair of great stars like Ouimet and Johnston in as many days simply isn't out of it until one puts him out and keeps him there.

Voigt Good Golfer

Voigt, of course, needs no curtain calls. The most discussed American amateur, next to Jones and Von Elm, he seemingly is "hot" for the first time in championship play. Since winning the medal here with a 71 and a 72, his play has become as spotty as an old vest. Yet it was good enough to beat Sweetser, former British and American champion, on Wednesday and Dr. O. F. Willing, notorious as a fighting golfer, in yesterday's third round.

However, he undoubtedly has picked up a live one in Perkins. The latter, they say, has much to learn about the principles of the golf swing, but it is evident that he has come far in this country since the disaster he suffered at the hands of this man Jones in the Walker Cup matches.

His record at Brae Burn, including an extra hole victory over dangerous Don McMoe and decisions over Arthur Yates, conqueror of Von Elm, and John Dawson amply proved this contention.

Gets Mention

HAVRILLA-FULLBACK.

Stephen "Jiggs" Havrilla, veteran fullback on the Westminster football team, is mentioned as one of the outstanding fullbacks of the district in the 1928 Spalding Football Guide. Max E. Hannum selected the outstanding district players for the book, and chose Havrilla.

"Jiggs" completes his fourth year as a member of the Blue and White grid team this fall. If he plays as well as he did in the Thiel, Allegheny, Waynesburg, and Duquesne games last year, he should make a strong bid for district mention again.

Managers Of Three Ring Champs' Here

In the city today are managers of three former champions—the second time the same trio have appeared.

Jimmie Dunn, manager of Johnny Kilbane, who won the title from Attel, then lost it to Gene Criqui, is here to see the Rocco-Friedman bout. He will also handle Young Firpo against Floyd Hybert Monday night.

Jimmie Dime, manager of George Chip, who won the middleweight title from Frank Klaus to drop it to Al McCoy, will handle Eddie Weygant, Joe Midway and Heinie Slate tonight.

Presbyterians To Play Methodists

Winner Of Presbyterian-Methodist Game Tonight To Meet Croton In Series

The Central Presbyterians and First M. E. teams will battle tonight at Scotland Lane field at 5:30 o'clock for the second half championship in the league. The Presbyterians were upset last night by the First Christians, creating a deadlock.

The winner of the game tonight will meet the Croton team tomorrow afternoon at the Croton field in a double bill. The first game will start at three o'clock and the second game will follow immediately. The two games Saturday will constitute the first of the series.

Corbett Beats Sergeant Baker

Young Corbett Of Pacific Coast Fails To Impress Critics With Victory

BAKER FLOORED IN SEVENTH ROUND

By SID MERCER
International News Service Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—They pulled another decision out of a hat last night at Madison Square Garden and when Young Corbett's name came up first he was awarded an undeserved victory over Sergeant Sammy Baker after twelve rounds of hair-trigger marksmanship.

Baker won six clear rounds and three were even. Corbett took the second, third and seventh and if there was a shade in the fourth it was his.

Decision Unpopular.

How the three officials—Referee Lou Magnolia and Judges Tom Flynn and George Kelly—arrived at the weird verdict is a mystery. It certainly was as sour a break as Baker ever got in his career, for he was fighting to establish his long awaited chance at Joe Dundee and the welterweight title.

Corbett took the seventh round by slamming the Sergeant to the mat with a terrific left hook to the pit of the stomach. For a moment it appeared that the gallant Samuel would have to chuck the fight. He remained on his knees to take a count of 9. Then he came back to hold the Californian even in the eighth and went on to capture the next three rounds. The last was even.

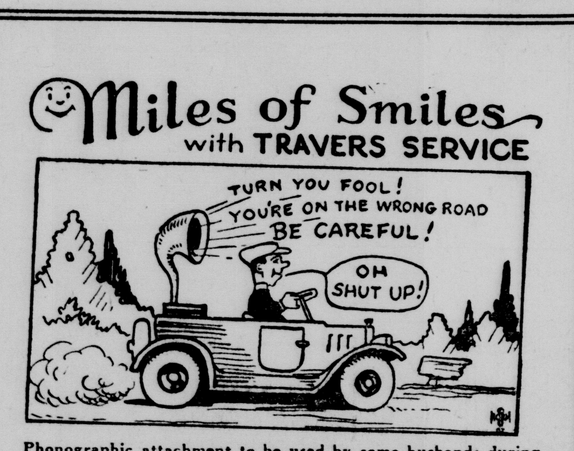

Corbett was highly touted as a result of his knockout of Nick Testo on the Pacific coast a few weeks ago. The Westerner came here with a reputation as the gest left-handed welterweight of all time.

He has to his credit a draw and a decision over Jack Thompson, who recently stopped Champion Joe Dundee.

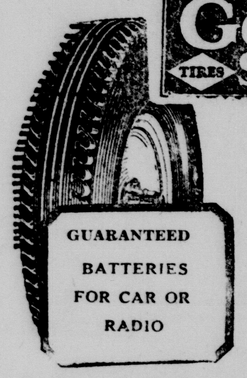

With the exception of the one punch that floored Baker in the seventh Corbett did not live up to his advance notices. His left to the head is a downward chop that did not annoy Baker to any great extent.

The left hook to the body is Corbett's one haymaker. Aside from that he is a grabber and a holder. In close, Baker was his master. He lathered Corbett's sides with left hooks and rights and slashes to the liver.

It is reported that Governor Smith will make only impromptu speeches on his tour in the West. In which case there will be little advantage in taking that special library along with him.—The Lowell Evening Leader.

National League Race Very Close

Cubs And Giants Crowd Cardinals For Honors In Heydler Circuit

YANKS-ATHLETICS AT LOGGERHEADS

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—With the Giants and the Cubs crowding the league leading Cardinals like a couple of bill collectors, the hectic National League race today reminds oldtimers of the great 1908 race when three teams roared down the finish line half a game apart. The Cards lead the Giants by only a game and a half today, with the Cubs another half a game in the rear.

The Cubs pulled a Macbeth on the Cards yesterday. They invited the Red Birds to their castle and then exterminated them with 14 assorted base hits. Meanwhile Sheriff Blake held the enemy to four singles and breezed home to a 6-1 win. A goodly crowd of 45,000 pennant mad Chicagoans was on hand.

Giants Fight Hard

Whether or not they win the flag, the inspired Giants must be rated as one of McGraw's most courageous teams. Winning three successive double bills is quite a feat, even with the Braves as the opposition. And the New Yorkers are primed to take another doubleheader from Boston today.

The Giants won the first game yesterday by a 12 to 2 score behind Benton's good pitching. They came from behind twice to grab the nightcap, 7 to 6.

Jumbo Jim Elliott of Brooklyn beat the Phillies for the second time in the series, duplicating Lefty Clark's feat. Score, 10 to 0.

Last Nights Fights

(International News Service)

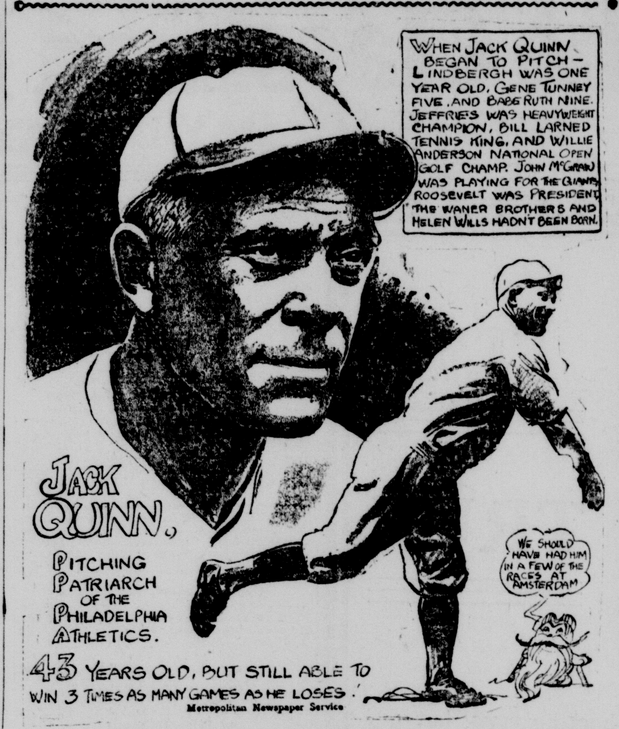

AT NEW YORK—Young Corbett California welterweight, won decision over Sergeant Sammy Baker, Mitcheli Field, N. Y. (12.

AT BOSTON—Al Mello, New England welterweight champion, stopped Billy Murphy of Lowell, Mass (5).

Spell It Q-Win — By Feg Murray

It isn't entirely youth that has helped the Athletics to sweep to their position close behind the Yankees in the exciting American League pennant race. True, the benching of Cobb and Speaker, and the insertion into the line-up of Orwoll, Haas, and Fox did much to pep up the then-called 'Apathetics." But Old Jack Quinn, the 43-year-old miner, who is more than twice as old as any living minor, and "Old Man" Connie Mack did much to put the Philadelphia Elephants back in the race.

Stan Zbyzko is still a marvel at 55. Jack Johnson won a fight two years ago when he was 49, Bob Fitzsimmons fought when he was 52, and Norman Brookes still plays fine tennis, and he's over 47. Each and every sport has its "ancient and decrepit" athletes who should be going around in wheel chairs and wearing long beards, but aren't. There are Taylor, Herd, Vardon, and Ray, for instance, in golf; Jim Thorpe, in football; and Clarence de Mar, the Marathon-runner.

Remember Pop Geers, famous driver of tratters and pacers? And there are, and have been many other athletes who were well beyond the "fat and forty" period.

Babe Adams was over 40 during the Pirate-Senators series in 1925. It would be a great sight to see this veteran Polish spitball pitcher, John Picus Quinn, taking part in the 1928 world series. This is Jack Quinn's twenty-sixth year in professional baseball—he started in the spring of 1903 with Connellsville, Pa., and now he's still going strong with Philadelphia in 1928, and may be a world series star at 43! He pitched four innings in the 1921 world series for the Yankees, but didn't do so well, and wants a glorious, career-ending victory.

(Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York.)

It must have been the climate in Amsterdam that was responsible for the United States defeats on the track. Why, even the Dutch athletes, who were accustomed to it, couldn't win a first place.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

Much has been said and written concerning the so-called "killer" type in boxing. The inherent desire of one Jack Dempsey to proceed on the basis that the quicker the other man gets one on the chin the better, started it. Gene Tunney's practice of winning by playing chopsticks on the other fellow's eye and his admitted abhorence of anything so brutal as a quick knockout fed fire to the discussion.

Did any group of athletes ever give clearer evidence of carrying the "killing" instinct than the New York Yankees in their crucial series with the Philadelphia Athletics?

Can the manner in which the Yankees, after ambling along in nambypamby fashion while coasting in the lead, unleashed such a crushing attack against Connie Mack's team be accounted for in any other way?

Harmless and content to toy and play until stung. Then, over the instant, but one thought—to retaliate.

The Yankees, to a man, started off to score a quick "win" in the league race. Midsummer saw them apparently in. A few bad rounds then—but the Yanks taking them in a spirit of fun, almost.

A bit more roughness from the league—namely the Mackmen. And then the realization that the opposition was dangerous and there came a sudden desire to squelch it.

Leading their athletic vultures to feast themselves on the bait. Creating an atmosphere of apparent fear. Tail-between-their-legs attitude. And then the blow!

The "killing" instinct of the Yankees may well explain the failure of the Mackmen to make the most of their golden opportunities.

Connie Mack himself is mild in manner. He creates a spirit of good fellowship and team work. He is a master of strategy on the field. A brilliant leader. But there is nothing cruel in his makeup.

To Huggins, however, baseball is a cold dish. The love of battle is the thing with him. He has brought men around him who play the game that way. Men who go to bat seeking the enemy's blood.

Coasting along ahead of the pack they are content to let the other fellow live, but once feeling unfriendly nipping at their heels they turn and strike.

* * *

The vagaries of the so-called fight racket form one of the most interesting angles of sport reading these days. But it remained for Sid Terris, once the leading lightweight contender, to pull a new one the other night.

Terris, whose career was checked suddenly through the medium of being the recipient of a few sudden socks on the jaw by rival contenders, was booked to fight Phil McGraw, tough egg, in a Coney Island ring. The day of the fight Terris called off the mill because of blisters on his feet.

He naively explained that he forgot to put on his shoes when he launched on his daily session of rope skipping and the floor was too rough.

First Christians Upset Centrals

First Christians Defeat Central Presbyterians 1 To 0 In Fast Battle

Claude Patton and his First Christian baseball team kicked the dope bucket in the Church League upside down last night at Scotland Lane field by toppling the Central Presbyterians, 1 to 0, in a three-inning game. The Presbyterians by virtue of their defeat are deadlocked with the First M. E. for the second half title.

Johnny Campbell, the sterling Christian heaver, pitched his head off last night and only allowed the Presbyterian wrecking crew but one hit. Campbell held the advantage in every inning. The only Presbyterian to reach first on a hit was Campbell, who bunted the first one and caught the Christian infield asleep.

Bush worked on the mound for the Presbyterians and was found for four hits, one of which was a double by Claude Patton. The game was hard-fought in every inning.

There were two out in the last of the third inning when the winning run was scored by the Christians, Seregant having the honor of crossing the plate.

The summary:

Cent. Presbyterians	R.	H.	O.	A.	E.

If certain publicity-seeking young women were actually to spend as much time in flying as they spend in talking about it, they'd be in the air the rest of their lives.

Why shouldn't Government pay for the booze a dry spy drinks? It pays for the gas a cop uses to bust the speed laws.

Sale Of "City Of New Castle Sewer Bonds. Series Of 1928"

The City of New Castle, in the County of Lawrence, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, offers for sale its "City of New Castle Sewer Bonds, Series of 1928" being an issue of $40,000.00, of the denomination of $1,000.00 each, payable as hereinafter mentioned, bearing interest at the rate of four and one-half (4½) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, from the date of their issue, upon the surrender of their coupons as they respectively become due, free of all Federal, State, Local or other taxation whatsoever. The interest and principal on said bonds shall be payable at the office of the City Treasurer of the said City of New Castle, Pennsylvania, and the interest shall be payable on the first day of April and the first day of October in each year, until the maturity of each respective bond.

Sealed bids will be received by the Council of the said City, until October 1, 1928, at 9:00 o'clock, A. M. Eastern Standard Time, when the said bids will be opened at a regular meeting of the said Council on said day, in the Council Chamber in the City Building, corner of East St. and Washington Street, and the bonds awarded to the highest and best bidder.

A deposit of $1,000.00, by a certified check, payable to the order of the City of New Castle, Pa., must accompany each bid. All proposals must be enclosed in a sealed envelope, marked "Proposal for City Bonds" and be addressed to Cordelia Zeigler Jones, City Clerk, City Building, New Castle, Pa.

All bonds will be dated October 1, 1928, and each of them will have attached to it coupons corresponding to the time for which each series is to run. All of the said bonds are to be sold in the following series:

Series A. Consisting of 5 bonds, due October 1, 1933;
Series B. Consisting of 3 bonds, due October 1, 1934;
Series C. Consisting of 3 bonds, due October 1, 1935;

N. Y. STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Sweeping advances in the motor stocks, the specialties, the oils and a few of the high grade rails at the beginning of trading today reflected Wall street's attitude toward the easier tone in the money market, which persisted in the face of a new $96,000,000 increase in the total of brokers' loans.

General Motors pushed ahead to above 259 for a new 3-point lead, and sold only fractionally below its record price of 210. The stocks was turned over in huge volume, as also were half a dozen or more of the popular motor shares, under the lead of Chrysler, which again topped all of its previous price records, Reo Motors joined the active list in a brisk run--up to around 34, and Studebaker was actively bought above 82.

A new buying movement in the oils swept Marland, Mid-Continent, Texas Corporation and the Standard Oils ahead. Bulls in the oils reported that President Walter Teagle of the Standard of New Jersey returning today from important conferences in Europe, would announce new plans for world-wide oil conservatism. Barnsdall's sharp advance to above 36 was also a feature of the oils.

A few of the mercantile stocks and equipments sold higher, but the market encountered profit-taking in the second hour and developed an irregular tone.

The call loan rate was unchanged at 7 per cent., but funds were available in the outside market at 6½ per cent.

Bradford Sends No Further Word

Tin City Rocket's Official Position In Race Not Yet Known

No word has been forthcoming from either of the occupants of the "Tin City Rocket," New Castle's representative in the class B division of the recent New York-to-San Francisco airial classic, since its reported landing at the finish of the derby at Mines field, Los Angeles, Wednesday.

In a wire to his wife in New Castle Wednesday evening, Roy Bradford, the owner of the plane, declared that he landed safely at the finish line but other than that said nothing else concerning the close of the transcontinental derby. He said, however that he would wire later.

Today Mrs. Bradford told The News that she had sent a message to her husband requesting him to send word. Up to noon, nothing had been received from him.

Monroe Epstein, Pittsburgh sportsman, accompanied Mr. Bradford and Raymond J. Merritt, the pilot of the Ryan monoplane, throughout the entire race. The local entry had left Roosevelt field, N. Y., the starting point, early last Saturday morning with the other participants in the second section of the racing planes. The plane had made good time and remained up with the leaders for the first few laps of the derby. Then word came that it had slipped back into fifteenth position and was continuing under some handicap.

Yesterday word was received through International News Service dispatches that Bradford and his companions had made remarkable gains on the last few miles, arriving at Mines airport in seventh position, but so close was the finish of the derby that the New Castle plane was forced to take 12th place in landing order.

Donations To City Impress Gilfillan

Says That Mid-West Citizens Realize Their Debt To Community

"Perhaps the thing that impressed me most on my recent journey was the many fine gifts which the wealthy people of Battle Creek, Michigan, have left to their city, which is about the size of New Castle," was the statement made this morning by J. Clyde Gilfillan, who has just returned from a business trip to Battle Creek.

"For a city of its size, the number of monuments to prominent citizens really is amazing," Mr. Gilfillan continued. "For example, there is the Willard Park, a 40 acre forest, which is the gift of Congressman Willard, who also bestowed a library to the city. For the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building, I. L. Stone gave the money. Irving Park, another show place, was the gift of several individuals.

"W. K. Kellogg, a most public spirited man, is responsible for a Boy Scout club house, the Gull Lake estate, which, incidentally, has a $600,000 endowment, a farmers' market, an airport, a community school for six districts, and an agricultural farm.

"At a cost of $750,000, the Leila Y. Post Montgomery hospital was also a donation to the city, as well as the Frelinghuysen park, given by Mary Anderson, the Sunshine Center, the donation of Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, who also gave a biological preserve to the Battle Creek college. Wealthy citizens gave the college and additional $200,000. Again, Mrs. Post gave the Leila Arboraetum with an endowment of $250,000.

"In the mid west wealthy people have an idea of their debt to the city in which they made their money, and I do not believe it will be long before the people of Western Pennsylvania who have attained some degree of wealth also realize their obligations to their city.

Webster On Trial For Possessing Liquor

The next case to be taken up before Judge Chambers will be that of the commonwealth against Greco Leopoldo, charged with felonious assault and battery on R. A. Davis. It is claimed that Leopoldo cut Davis with a knife and without provocation.

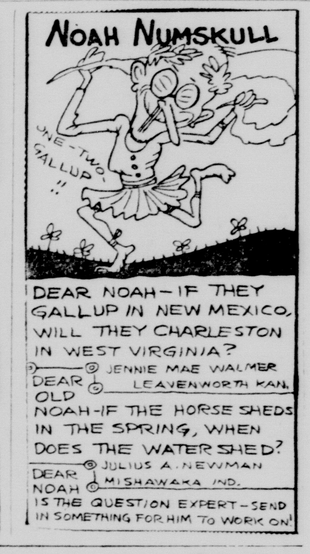

The case of James Nash, charged with possessing liquor, will be the next to be taken up by Judge Hildebrand. Nash is from Ellwood City.

Amundsen Search Ceases October 1

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Sept. 14.—The Soviet Nobile Relief committee today ordered the Ice Breaker Krassin to abandon the search for the Alessandri and Amundsen groups upon October first. This decision was taken in view of the fact that both Italy and Norway have ceased the hunt for the 12 missing men.

Woman Who Heard Lincoln Speak Sees Battlefield

War President Shook Her Hand After Famous Gettysburg Address

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 14. — Mrs. Loretta Frey, 87, of this city, who heard Abraham Lincoln deliver his famous address at Gettysburg in 1863, recently visited Gettysburg battlefield for the first time since that date.

During the Civil War Mrs. Frey lived at Upton, Pa., near here, and recently went from this city to Waynesboro for a visit with friends. While there she was taken by auto to the battlefield where she heard Lincoln speak 65 years ago.

On the day of the dedicatory services, November 19, 1863, Mrs. Frey and a party of Upton friends traveled to Gettysburg by horse and buggy and heard the president's address.

Mrs. Frey and her friends had arrived early at the field and had obtained positions very near the speakers stand. After the services Mrs. Frey was one of the persons with whom Lincoln shook hands. On her second visit to the battlefield Mrs. Frey spent the entire afternoon visiting the places of interest and pointed out the scene of the dedicatory services.

Bobby Jones Is Leading Finlay In Tournament

(International News Service)

BRAEBURN COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 14.—Shooting a great 34, one under par, Bobby Jones was making another runaway of a national amateur championship match this morning, being 5 up at this point over Young Philips Finlay, New York, in the semi-final round of the tournament. Except for a brief lapse on the second hole, the champion was equalled or shaved par all the way, saving himself with fine recoveries on many occasions.

In the other semi-final, Tom Perkins, British champion, was 3 up on George Voigt, the medalist, at the end of nine holes.

NUNN IS AGAIN GOLF CHAMPION

Wins Field Club Championship For Third Year; Retains Cup

On Thursday afternoon at the golf course of the New Castle Field club, William M. Nunn, champion of the club on two other occasions, won the club championship for the third time and the trophy, which goes to the member of the club winning the championship on three different occasions.

His opponent in the finals of this year's championship match was Herbert Lambert. The contest ended at the 14th hole, with the score 6 up and 4 to go in favor of William M. Nunn, the new champion.

Lambert showed his best form on hole No. 8, on which the distance is 485 yards. Both he and Nunn made wonderful long drives. Lambert holed his ball in four strokes, one under the par of 5, taking the hole and making a birdie.

At the end of the first nine holes, Nunn had a score of 39 and Lambert 43. They halved the next four holes and Nunn won the fifth or 14th hole, winning the match and the championship. A gallery of about 40 golf enthusiasts followed the contestants.

The trophy, which is now the property of Mr. Nunn, he having won it three different years, has been played for five years, Dr. J. R. Cooper and M. K. Gilliland having each won one notch on it.

The trophy is in the nature of a large shield on which there is a representation of the club house, two very interesting golfing figures and the names of the several persons winning the championship since it was first offered.

Tennis Tourney Begins Tonight

The first match of the Y. W. C. A. tennis tournament will be played off this evening at 5 o'clock. The match is between Miss Mary Tewell and Miss Myrtle Burnett. Matches will be played off on the Attorney J. Clyde Gilfillan tennis court on Clenmore Blvd.

Saturday at 5 o'clock there will be a match between Miss Ruth Jamison and Miss Leona Sankey. Matches are to be played off each evening next week, weather permitting

SELECT OFFICERS AT HIGH SCHOOL

New Wilmington High School Names Leaders; Other News Of Town

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 14.—Two of the classes of the local high school have elected their officers for the coming year. The senior class chose Thomas Hutchison for its president, Harriet Hartwell for its vice-president and Katherine McClure for its secretary-treasurer.

The other class to complete its student organization is the sophomore, which now is governed by the following officers: Richard Davis, president; Evelyn Osborne, vice-president, and Alda Mae Hawk, secretary-treasurer

Plans are now under way for the first big social event of the school year which is the annual Who's Who party. This year the social will be held at the high school gymnasium Thursday evening, September 20. The student committee of arrangements for the Who's Who has as its members Margaret Robinson, chairman; Eleanor Adams, Willis McGill and Russell Sewell.

In the reorganization of the local scout troop following the resignation of Assistant Scoutmaster Edward Brown, Howard Lee has been selected to be assistant scoutmaster. Replacing Lee, who was senior patrol leader of the troop before his promotion, is Frank Goff. Both of these lads have been very active and trustworthy in Jack Hulme's troop.

W. P. James of New Wilmington is expected to move to Sharon in the near future, having bought a grocery store and meat market in that city.

The local Naccanna club will hold a business meeting this evening at the home of Mrs. Zella Robins. It is desired that all members be present at this meeting.

Kline Fulmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Fulmer of Neshannock avenue here, will leave the college town today or tomorrow to take up post-graduate work at Harvard university.

Mrs. D. R. Mansolo of Cuba has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Ostrander here for the past two weeks.

Miss Bella Lakey of New Wilmington and Miss Lenora Taylor of Pulaski left this week to enter the Indiana State Teachers colleg

Automobile Sale Nets Loss Of $10

Three Machines Seized In Liquor Transportation Fail To Bring Costs

Selling automobiles which are seized in the transportation of liquor is not very profitable business for the county. This morning Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds sold three machines for a total of $117. This was ten dollars less than the costs in the cases, including the storage of the automobiles.

One of the machines, a Ford, belonging to Alfred Vokle of Detroit, brought $47, another Ford belonging to Robert Granson of Youngstown, brought $33 and a Dodge belonging to Roy Petty brought $10.

Failure to make any money on these sales seems to be largely due to the fact that when an automobile is seized there are certain legal requirements before it can be sold. After the district attorney presents a petition to court to sell it, the machine must be advertised. Meanwhile it must be stored in a garage and the storage charges must be paid. In a number of instances the storage has amounted to more than was received for the car. Usually old cars are used in transporting liquor, which accounts for the losses.

BOY SCOUT Activities

FIRST CHRISTIAN TROOP.

Troop No. 15 of the First Christian church held their weekly meeting Thursday, September 13th, 1928, at 7:30. The meeting was in charge of Scoutmaster Sidney Smith and Assistant George McCracken. The meeting was taken up in contests of different kinds. Robert Ray, Ralph Montgomery and Bill Hart being three of the best contestants. The boys are entertaining Troop No. 1 of New Bedford next Thursday. All members of Troop No. 15 are urged to be present at this meeting.

Scribe, Oscar Patton.
